GOOD judges unite in the verdict that Decatur sand and Delphi lime are 100 per cent ahead of the Chicago sand and lime brought here by the Illinois Central company to build their new freight depot. The test was made by Mr. Butts, of Peoria, and Tuttle and Burgess, of Decatur, and examination proved that the material sold by Mr. D. Martin, Decatur agent for the Delphi company, is far superior to all others.

A RECENT jury before a justice of the peace of Piatt county in a case where the plaintiff sued for $14 board bill rendered the following verdict: "That when the plaintiff paid the sum of $14.75, costs of suit, then the justice was to render a judgment for $14 in favor of the plaintiff." This novel verdict will occasion considerable laughter among Decatur justices. It is certainly rather mixed, and in effect compels the plaintiff to pay all the costs of collecting a just claim. It must have been a timber jury that got up that verdict.

A. O. BREWER, the popular baker, always keeps a neat and clean place, but he has decorative spells that add beauty to his place. A few days ago he told Pluck to cut loose and beautify his shop room the best he knew how, and presto! in a short time the walls and ceiling were adorned with the richest of gilt paper, with borders and end pieces of embellished velvet. The plate glass front has gilt letters, and the wood work is finished in ebony and gold. Brewer is always in style.

Several damage suits against the board are said to have commenced in the vicinity of Chicago, growing out of the killing of alleged diseased horses, per order of veterinarian.

ABOUT 11 o'clock Thursday morning of last week the old "Hickory Mansion" at Sadorus was discovered to be on fire. The Anderson—Carder Marriage at High Noon—Other Weddings.

From Thursday's Daily.

ANDERSON—CARDER.

There was a quiet wedding at high noon to-day at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Carder, at No. 306 North Main street, witnessed by a company of the more intimate friends of the family and contracting parties. The couple were MR. WILLIAM ANDERSON and MISS MABEL CARDER, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. W. H. Wilder, presiding elder of the Methodist church, Decatur district. The ring ceremony with full ritual of Methodist Episcopal Church was used. The impressive ceremony was performed in the middle parlor, the couple standing in the bay window, which was tastily decorated with flowers for the important event. The attendants were Mr. James H. Herbert, Wabash train dispatcher at Litchfield, and Miss Lillie Thebes, of St. Louis. The bride, who is one of Decatur's most beautiful young ladies, was richly attired in a suit of russet brown silk, with velvet trimmings of a darker shade and rosary beads; ornaments, diamonds; she carried a bouquet of orange blossoms and wore no gloves. The bridesmaid wore a stylish suit of russet brown richly embroidered in a lighter shade; garnet ornaments.

A sumptuous wedding repast followed the earnest congratulations. The bride received a large collection of costly and beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left for St. Louis this afternoon. They will remain at the Southern Hotel a few days, before going to Litchfield where they have furnished apartments in a pleasant quarter of the town. Mr. Anderson, who is familiarly known to his many friends as "Billy," is one of the most popular of the Wabash passenger engineers. His run is between Litchfield and St. Louis, a distance of 55 miles, leaves in the morning and returns early in the evening.

The many friends of the bride will join the REPUBLICAN in wishing her and her chosen life companion a full measure of happiness and worldly prosperity.

YOUNG—KECK.

Mr. William Young and Miss Anna B. Keck were united in marriage last evening at 8 o'clock, at the residence of the bride, on West Wood Street. Rev. George Landgraf, of the German Lutheran church, officiated. The attendants were Minnie Wedel and Carl Schubach. Only a small company of friends were present. The bride received a number of handsome gifts, and the company partook of a splendid supper. Mr. Young is the senior member of Young Bros.' firm, whose meat market is north of the park, and is a prosperous young business man. Mr. and Mrs. Young have gone to housekeeping. The REPUBLICAN wishes them much joy.

DAWSON—LEWIS.

Wm. J. Dawson, of Norborne, Mo., and Mrs. Katie Lewis, of Atwood, Ill., were married in the parlor at the St. Nicholas hotel this forenoon, by Rev. W. H. Wilder, Methodist presiding elder. Charles Atwell and Miss Ada Atwell, of Atwood, were present.

HOKE—RODDY.

Mr. J. H. Hoke and Miss S. Mary Roddy were married last evening at the residence of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Roddy, 560 North Church street. The couple left last night for Louisville, Ky., where they will reside.

GOODMAN—BLENZ.

Mr. Frank Goodman and Miss Josie Blenz were united in marriage last evening at the German Methodist parsonage, Rev. Roeder officiating.

Safe-Blowing at Kenney.

Wednesday night burglars entered the grain office of E Kent & Co., at Kenney, and after acquiring possession of what valuables they could easily get, blew open the safe and extracted from it a considerable amount of money and valuable papers. There is no clew to the thieves.

DIED—On Thursday night in Springfield, at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Eliza Boyd, of quick consumption, Lulu May, daughter of L. C. Haskell, aged 16 years.

THIS item appears in the Clinton Public of this week: "In last week's Public it was stated that Mr. William Phares was a candidate for supervisor in Maroa township on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Phares doesn't want to be classed in that line, and says he was not a candidate of the Democrats. He was nominated at a meeting of the members of all parties and run on a people's ticket." Both candidates were Republicans and Moyer won.

Resigned.

Manager Bradbury, Traffic Manager Parker and Chief Engineer Allen, of the P., D. & E. railroad, have all tendered their resignations, to take effect the first of May.

Arrested On a Serious Charge.

From Friday's Daily.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Constable Dillehunt arrested Dr. J. M. Blythe, the dentist, on a state warrant, charging him with attempting to take improper liberties with Mary L. Solland, wife of Geo. W. Solland, a young farmer residing near Macon. The Doctor appeared before Justice Curtis and gave $200 bond for his appearance for trial on April 20th at 10 a. m. Solland is the adopted son of Christian Schwab, a farmer who resides near Boody. Mrs. Solland is a handsome young woman of 21, who was married on December 31st, had been visiting the office of Dr. Blythe alone, for the purpose of having twenty teeth filled and four pulled. The bill was $32, and Mr. Schwab said he would pay the bill. The story of the young husband is that the attempted assault was made on Thursday evening last between 5 and 6 o'clock; that in helping the lady out of the chair, the dentist tried to induce her to go into a back room with him, but she refused to go. She then departed. She had one tooth to be filled before the work would be completed, and on Friday afternoon she again visited the office alone, and the Doctor filled the tooth, when she departed. Yesterday Mr. Schwab and Mr. Solland visited Mr. Blythe at his office, and commenced stating the charges against him as above set forth, adding that he had made indelicate remarks to Mrs. Solland on the last day of her visit to him. Dr. Blythe denies all the charges made against him, and alleges that the conversation of the men convinces him that they either wanted to scare him out of money or get him to give a receipt for work done, and thus hush the matter up. He is still of this opinion, the more he considers the conduct of Solland. It is learned that Solland is a poor young man. The Doctor says he will spend $500 rather than in any way admit that he is guilty in any degree of a charge of which he is entirely innocent. He is a man of family who has heretofore borne a spotless reputation in Decatur, and until all the facts are brought out, judgment should and will be suspended.

KILLED AT SPRINGFIELD.

Owen Rooney No More—Murdered Last Night at Springfield.

From Friday's Daily.

Owen Rooney, a tough character well known in Decatur, was shot and instantly killed in Durkin's saloon, near the watch factory, at Springfield, last night at 11:30 o'clock, by Ed Flaherty, foreman in a department at the watch factory. There were in the saloon at the time Owen and Albert Rooney, Dan Donnelly, George Ford, Henry Gee, Ed Flaherty, Thomas Gee, Patsey Kelly, James Durkin and wife. The Gees buried their mother during the afternoon, and the Gees and Rooneys are cousins. Two rounds of drinks had been paid for, one by Henry Gee and one given away by Durkin. Then Tom Gee treated the whole party, "standing off" the bar. Durkin raised a row about it and showed fight at once, declaring that he was the best man in Springfield. Henry Gee pulled off his coat when Ed Flaherty poked a revolver under his nose, telling him to keep quiet. Meantime George Ford had knocked Owen down, and as he was getting up Flaherty pointing the revolver directly at his head, pulled the trigger, sending a large ball crashing through the left eye and into the brain. Death was instantaneous. Jumping out of the door, Flaherty pulled it to and escaped in the darkness. Flaherty has not been caught, but Ford was arrested at 3 o'clock this morning.

The Rooney family lived in Decatur up to March 8th, when they removed to Springfield where they live in the rolling mill section. Owen until recently was employed in the Decatur railway yards. He was a typical tough and slugger and has been in the county jail on various offenses times without number. About a month ago he left Decatur, and until last night was at work for the Springfield Rolling Mill Co. Owen was about 36 years of age and well built, very much dissipated and disposed to create a racket on slight provocation; but from the foregoing account of the shooting, which is from the lips of those who witnessed it, as published in the State Journal, it appears Owen had made no attempt to assault Flaherty, though he must have had a lively racket with Ford. Flaherty is said to be a peaceable man when sober, but a terror when drunk, as he was at the time of the murder.

In Custody.

Ed Flaherty, the watch factory foreman, charged with the murder of Owen Rooney, in a saloon at Springfield, is in custody. The jury held him to answer. Flaherty denies that he did the shooting.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Hon. J. J. Peddecord and daughter are home from Hot Springs.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Reeme, April 14, a daughter—10½ pounds.

J. P. Westbay, late of Windsor, resides at 406 North Franklin street.

Thomas Whitaker, formerly of Macon, has returned from California to visit old friends in this city.

Rev. W. L. Bankson, the popular minister of the C. P. church, is now located at Mt. Zion, having recently removed from Blue Mound to that place.

Silas Packard arrived home yesterday from his trip of two months to various points in California. He went to the Pacific Slope for the benefit of his health, but was so unfortunate as to have to wrestle with the chills during most of his absence, and he is glad to get home to escape the rawness of the seacoast breezes. Mr. Packard saw many Decaturites on the coast, among them F. L. Wood and family, J. A. Close and family and others. All are well.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. S. Sult, druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the liver, kidney or blood. The Weekly Republican.

MR MANNING LOGAN, son of Senator Logan, is said to be engaged to Miss Alexander, of New York.

GEN. LOGAN yesterday reintroduced in the Senate his bill to increase the efficiency of the army.

THE new Chinese minister, Chang Yen Hoon, with a retinue of thirty persons, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Washington.

THE street car strike in New York did not last long, traffic being yesterday resumed on all the lines except one.

ON Sunday the Bishop of Madrid was shot three times by a deposed priest as the former was ascending the cathedral steps.

POWDERLY is in Washington, where he will testify before the special committee of the House appointed to investigate the strike in the Southwest.

THE man who attempted to blow up the residence of Sam Jones, the evangelist, in Georgia, has been arrested in Texas and will be taken back to the scene of his crime for trial.

AT East St. Louis the freight blockade seems to be practically broken. On Sunday an immense accumulation of freight was moved, and the railway officials announce clear tracks and an ability to perform their whole duty as common carriers.

THE right to strike must sooner or later be defined as beginning and ending with the right to quit work It can not be stretched to include the right of obstruction to persons who wish to take vacant places, or destruction to the property of former employers. Within these limitations a strike is lawful, and when it is not also wise the burden of folly will be upon the strikers.

NEW YORK is getting a taste of strike diet these days. About all the surface street railways are involved, and though but one line has anything like an acknowledged grievance the drivers and conductors on all the other lines have joined the strike. As a consequence intramural travel is almost entirely stopped and much annoyance is the result.

NEW YORK Sun: What is the use of working for the Democratic ticket when Democratic party workers are frowned upon by a Democratic administration? What is the use of voting a Democratic ticket if there is to be little evidence of change between Republican and Democratic success? These are questions which come up

ST. LOUIS Globe-Democrat: Everybody will be glad, of course, to hear that the President is going to take to himself a wife; but it will not comfort the Democratic office seekers very much to reflect that much of the time which he might have devoted to their interests has probably been spent in writing love letters to his best girl.

LEWISTON (Me) Journal: The committee of the Maine Good Templars' Lodge on the enforcement of the liquor law, report that the sale of liquor is increasing in Maine. There is no doubt that the campaign against rum needs a new infusion of vigor and earnestness. If the friends of temperance relax their efforts in the least, their opponents are quick to take advantage of it. The devil never sleeps.

A ST. LOUIS press dispatch of yesterday says: It is generally conceded here that the Knights of Labor strike, so far as the business of the various roads centering in this city and East St. Louis is concerned, is gradually losing its effect. The Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain railroads have fully resumed traffic, according to the statements of the officials of these roads, and the roads which enter East St Louis are doing all the business required of them, and are handling promptly al freight offered.

IT is well known that Mr. Cleveland is a fatalist and believes in a guiding star. Senator Ingalls made this assertion in his speech in the Senate recently, and it has also been frequently made in the newspapers and never been denied, but it is now said that he also believes in the guidance of spirits and that he frequently consults a medium as to what course he shall pursue when he is in doubt. It is said that when he was Sheriff at Buffalo he went to a medium once for sport and was told by her that he would one day be Governor of the state of New York and afterward President of the United States. The fact that this prophecy was so accurately fulfilled has given the President permanent faith in mediums, and it is said that a Mrs. Sawyer, quite a notorious dealer in spirits, is in the habit of going to the President and giving him advice. She has told him, it is claimed, that he will be re-elected if he lives to serve out the end of his term, and it is also claimed that she has told him that he will not die from illness. These predictions are said to have made a great impression upon the President's mind, and account for the extraordinary care which the President exercises to avoid accidents. I was informed the other day that the reason he did not go to Vice President Hendricks' funeral was that this medium advised him not to do so for fear he might be injured on the way.

It is a remarkable fact that the President is never seen in public in Washington. He never goes to any public gatherings, and he has been to the theatre but once since he was inaugurated, and no one in the house knew he was present, as he sat behind the curtain in his box. He never walks upon the street, and when he goes out riding usually prefers a close carriage, so that he can not be recognized. Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, and Garfield were all accustomed to drive in open carriages and to walk freely upon the streets. Scarcely a pleasant day ever passed while Grant was President that he was not to be seen walking up and down Pennsylvania Avenue, bowing to his friends and stopping to shake hands with them. Mr. Cleveland has never been down Pennsylvania Avenue in his life, except to be inaugurated and to attend the funeral of the Vice President, and then he went in a close carriage. Very few people in Washington know the President by sight, and they have seen him only at his public receptions.

SPRINGFIELD Union: Isn't it about time to have a little renaissance of Yankee Doodle in this country? What with socialism, nihilism, anarchism, boycottism, strike-ism, etc., it seems as if the great original idea of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" was getting snowed under. "Mind your own business" was one of the maxims for which this Yankee Nation fought and bled a century ago, and the wisdom of it is not worn out yet by any means.

"HACKMETACK," a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by S. M. Irwin and C. F. Shilling.

This is the Opinion of the Editor of this Paper.

V. H. Parke is the independent candidate He is not in any ring to extort high prices from the farmers of this section, but he is the man that has conceived the idea of retailing goods at wholesale prices, and we think the farmers will do well to sustain him. We know he is a worker and honorable in all his dealings. He can sell you goods for the same price that the factories sell to small dealers, provided the farmers will patronize him. His goods are of the best makes and his guarantee is good. He has laid in an immense stock of binding twine from the most reliable factory in the United States, which he proposes to sell at the lowest possible margin. It might be well for the farmers to buy their stock early in order to be sure to get it before the supply runs short. His plows, corn-planters, cultivators, Disc harrows, hay rakes, field rollers, binders, mowers, hay tedders, sulky plows are the best made at wholesale prices to all. Come and convince yourself! w

THE LATE SCHOOL EXAMINATION.

County Alumni Officers—Miss Stuart's Average 98½—School Notes.

We clip the following from the resolution offered and passed at the final examination, held March 26th:

Resolved, That an association to be known as the Macon County Alumni Association be organized in the following manner: the officers of the association to consist of a president, a secretary and a board of vice presidents equal in number to the number of Central Examinations. The president shall be the person who ranks No. 1 in the county; the secretary shall be the person who ranks No. 2 in the county; the vice presidents shall be composed of the persons who shall hold the highest rank in each Central Examination.

In accordance with the above resolution I hereby report the officers of the Alumni Association for 1886-1887:

President Miss Alta Stuart, of the White Central, and from the Kirby school.

Secretary—Miss Flora Elliott, of Harristown Central, and from Stringtown school.

The board of vice presidents is as follows.—Pleasant Grove Central, T. J. Meyer; Boody Central, Lee Hill; Prairie Hall Central, Edward Underwood; Argenta Central, Dora Hilbrant; Forsyth Central, William Soeburger; Dalton City Central, Maggie Haldeman; Boiling Springs Central, Alice Pharis; Blue Mound Central, George Schwab; Eldorado Central, Floatie Baker; Pleasant View Central, Willie Morris; Macon Central, Ada Combs; Niantic Central, Joseph H. Clark; Ocean Wave Central, R. A. Berry; Hiss Central, Cassius Holcomb; Cherry Grove Central, Oliver Phillips; Hadley Central, Etta Whitaker; White Hall Central, Ida Ibison; Prairie Chapel Central, Stella Merker; Boiling Spring Central, Ada Clark, Harristown Central Lewis Harper; Warrensburg Central, Edna Hamilton; White Central, Emma Stuart.

The board of vice presidents are requested to clip the above and preserve it for reference. It will be convenient for reference.

Miss Alta Stuart made the highest average and is entitled to rank No. 1 in the county. Her grade is 9 ½.

Miss Flora Elliott made a grade of 98½ and is rank 2 in the county.

By way of explanation, it should be stated that the schools hold monthly examinations, furnished from the County Superintendent's office; that there is a township examination held at a central school, annually, by the Co. Sup't in person. The latter examination selects those entitled to enter the final. The final is not a completion of the course of study pursued, but simply final for the year. All pupils holding Final Certificates grading eighty-five per cent, may enter the Decatur High School without further examination.

Another examination will be held at the county seats of those counties pursuing a general course of study, on the second Saturday in May. The rate of representation for the several counties will be one pupil for every twenty schools. This will entitle Macon county to ten competing candidates. As these pupils are to be chosen from the highest ranks, the following will take due notice and make an effort to enter the examination. (Names are given in order of rank): Alta Stuart, Flora Elliott, Ada Combs, Addie Ibison, Ada Clark, Lewis Harper, Eva Ash, Dora Hilbrant, Floatie Baker, Edward Underwood. It is quite likely that one or more of the persons named cannot attend the examination, hence we call upon five of the next highest grades to attend, if they so desire. They are as follows: Joseph Clark, Edna Hamilton, Oliver Phillips, Bertha Clark, Charles Davis, A. B. Troxell; A. B Troxell and Charles Davis tied: Edna Hamilton and Joseph Clark also tied.

The object of this last examination is to compare county with county: the questions are to be made and furnished by a disinterested committee, graded by this committee and each pupil furnished with a certificate of rank in the group of counties. The committee will be ranked and furnished with appropriate certificates suitable for display in the County Superintendent's office

All questions will be based on Manual Work. Let interested parties begin reviewing at once. JOHN TRAINER.

THE enervation and lassitude of spring are but indications of the sluggish action of the blood, overloaded with carbonates accumulated by the use of heating food in winter. This condition may be remedied by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier known.

Binding Twine.

It is now about time for the farmers to begin looking around for a supply of Binding Twine. I have a very large stock of the very best. I am aware that the other dealers will say and do all they can to throw dirt on the prices I make, and will try to ring in a lower grade Now to prevent this, I have bought 8,000 to 10,000 pounds of Twine of lower grade. Want you to compare this with their twine. I have about 50,000 pounds of the Best Twine on the market, just in from the manufacturers, that I propose to sell at wholesale prices from 50 pounds up If farmers will club together and take 1,000 pounds or more, I will make special rates. Remember, V. H. PARKE is the man that is doing this. wtf

The Chicago Switchmen's Strike—Governor Oglesby on the Ground.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Governor Oglesby arrived at the Grand Pacific Hotel yesterday morning from Springfield, and shortly afterward had a private conference with Sheriff Hanchett and the Lake Shore railroad officials on the subject of the Lake Shore switchmen's strike.

"I have no anticipation of serious trouble with the strikers," said the Governor, after the conference. "Of course the railroad company want the interference of the strikers with the new men stopped at once, and to that end they are talking. But I can't say what action will be taken until the necessity arises. It will not be necessary to call out the militia. If it does become necessary, I will do it. The sheriff has the greatest power at his command, and it is his province to maintain the peace in his county without aid from the State, if possible. He can call on every able-bodied man to assist in maintaining order, and could easily muster a force here superior to the entire command of State troops."

Shortly before noon an engine was taken up to Thirty-ninth street to clear the stock-yards "Y" of the cars which were blockaded yesterday. A number of strikers and outsiders, however, pulled the pins and refused to allow the engineers to take the cars out. The attempt was abandoned and the engine driven back to the round house.

Yardmaster Jones was not disposed to discuss the situation. He persisted in saying that the company would offer no proposition looking toward a compromise with the striking switchmen. It appears to be the determination of the company to fill all the places of the strikers with new hands.

The strikers' safety committee say that all decent men who have come out to go to work on misrepresentation will be taken care of by the Switchmen's Union.

Much complaint is made by the more conservative of the strikers against the conduct of outsiders, who were chiefly responsible for frustrating the company's design to clear the blockade to the stock yards.

NO MORE elections until the congressional, legislative and county contests in November, except in June for member of the board of education.

THE new directory of Bloomington and Normal puts the aggregate population of the two places at 26,872, that of the former alone being 24,372.

THE prohibitionists in the Danville district will hold a congressional nominating convention, and put up candidates for the state senate and legislature.

MEMBERS of the Guards, about 20 in number, are thinking of making a trip to East St. Louis on Sunday to visit the militia on duty.

THE Wabash will be sold on Monday next. It is predicted that J. F. Joy, of Detroit, will be made president, and A. A. Talmage vice president and general manager.

YESTERDAY Dr. A. S. Waltz, the dentist, moved his household effects to his summer residence on the farm below the county bridge. The Doctor will rent his city property.

THE strike in Chicago continues. Some damage to rolling stock on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern yards was done last night by the strikers or their friends. Sheriff Henchett has been called upon for protection.

CAPT. JOHN G. MACK, chief mustering officer of the department of Illinois G. A. R., has five new G. A. R. posts to organize and muster in this week, which will run the number of posts in Illinois to 570.

GOVERNOR OGLESBY has gone to Kentucky to attend the funeral of his nephew, A. J. Wilson, who died suddenly of apoplexy. The deceased lived in Decatur before the war and clerked in a store here. He was familiarly known here as "Sandy" Wilson.

THE Doris circus will not show in Decatur on the 28th. Evidently the notice served on the Wabash to arrange for transportation on that date was a mistake. The outfit will be at Indianapolis on the 28th, going thence on the Wabash to Kokomo, Ind.

AT St. Louis Sunday, Knights of Labor called upon the butcher firm which supplies Mr. Hoxie, of the Missouri Pacific road, with meat, and requested them to desist on pain of being boycotted. The Knights' demand was rejected, however, the butchers saying that Mr. Hoxie was a good customer, and his orders would be promptly filled.

NEURALGIA, rheumatism, erysipelas, sore throat, toothache and all other pains and aches are promptly cured by Salvation Oil. Price 25 cents.

Coughing Clara—Comely, charming, Clarissa Clendenning, carelessly catching cold; creeping chills came; Clara coughed continually; cruel, croupy cough, that would have killed her, had she not used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, costing 25c.

PRIVATE LITTLER, of Co. C, U. S. regular army, was in Decatur on Sunday. He is off on a furlough and will soon return to the barracks at St. Louis. He has been in the service six years, and and says he will remain until he has served 20 years, when he will be retired on full pay. He hopes to become a lieutenant, but promotions are slow.

MONDAY, May 31st, will be Memorial Day, or what is more commonly called Decoration Day. Memorial Day is the day on which the nation honors the memory of the fallen soldiers, and decorates with sweet flowers the graves of those who died in their country's service. The day is by statute a legal holiday, and its proper keeping meets with the cordial approval of all our people.

Will Withdraw the Militia.

A telegram states that order having been restored at East St. Louis, it has been decided at Springfield to reduce the force of state militia on duty there as soon as practicable by the withdrawal of as many companies as can be spared, retaining a sufficient force to insure protection and operation of the railroads. None of the companies will be kept on duty for an unreasonable length of time but each will be relieved from time to time by fresh forces, so as to divide the labor. This is made possible by the agreement of the managers of the various railroads centreing at East St. Louis to transport relief companies free of expense to the state, otherwise it would not be done. This policy would seem to indicate that it is the intention to keep a military force on duty at East St. Louis until it is demonstrated that there is likely to be no recurrence of the outbreak. All the companies of the 6th regiment, Illinois National Guards, have been ordered to be in readiness for a sudden call for service, either to re-enforce the troops now on the ground, or to relieve them, so as to divide the time.

THE STRIKE.

Another cowardly attempt was made to shoot militia on duty at East St. Louis yesterday morning early. The shooting was in the Vandalia yard, and the two sentries shot at were members of Co. D. Bullets struck their clothing. No arrests. The assassins got away. Intimidation on a small scale goes on. Railways are running trains more frequently.

Pay of the Militia.

Officers and enlisted men of the Illinois National Guard are allowed, when on duty under orders from the commander-in-chief, the same pay provided by law for officers and enlisted men of the United States army, for each day's service actually so performed, viz: Brigadier-general, $5,500 per annum; colonel, $3,500; lieutenant colonel, $3,000; major, $2,500; captain, $1,800; adjutant, $1,800; quartermaster, $1,800; first lieutenant, $1,500; second lieutenant, $1,400; chaplain, $1,500; first sergeant, $22 per month; sergeants, $17; corporals, $15; privates, $13 per month. For each successive five years' service the pay is advanced ten per cent. Mileage at the rate of eight cents per mile is allowed for travel under orders.

The County Superintendency.

The Republicans of Macon and vicinity are pretty enthusiastically in favor of W. C. Chenoweth, the principal of the Macon schools, for county superintendent, and will present his name for that office to the county convention. Though a young man Mr. C. has made a splendid record as a teacher, and bears the very best testimonials from leading educators of the state. If nominated he would without doubt receive the cordial support of the party throughout the county.

Death of a Noted Stock Breeder.

Uncle John A. Brown, the noted breeder of fine hogs and sheep, who died on the 17th on his place near Warrensburg, was buried on Monday. The deceased was an Englishman and aged 72 years. He had a fall some weeks ago, breaking his shoulder. Mr. Brown's son was killed at the Edward street crossing of the Wabash road a few years ago, his wagon being thrown into the ditch by a passing train. One of the horses was killed in the same accident. Mr. Brown had attended the county fairs in this state for many years, and also the Illinois state fair and those held at St. Louis, where he showed his stock and captured many premiums. His surviving daughters are Mrs. Lydia Schenck and Mrs. Peverley.

Sold Out.

Yesterday evening George Hauss sold his restaurant, on Water street, to Robert D. Wilson, late of Mt. Zion, the consideration being $500, and to-day Mr. Wilson is in possession, his son, Oscar, being behind the counter, assisted by Ed Hodge. Some weeks ago Mr. Hauss sold his residence property, on South Franklin street, for $950 to Joe Wissen, an advance of $150 on the original purchase. Mr. Hauss is arranging to go to Germany to engage in the chicken business. He believes there is money in that line anywhere in the country, particularly in his native land.

SO FAR there have been 1,950 men subpœnaed to secure a jury to try Mooney, the man who murdered his cell mate at Joliet, and only ten men out of the lot have been found who can serve. These men have been kept in the jury room except when out for feed and then they are accompanied by officers. It is feared that they will not be able to secure a jury in Lake county. Waukegan is the place at which the trial will take place. Mike Mooney is an old Decatur criminal. He was sent to Joliet from this county for stealing a watch from a man in a hotel near the Union depot.

FIVE ALDERMEN CHOSEN.

Result of the Quiet City Election—A Very Light Vote Cast.

From Wednesday's Daily.

Before eight o'clock last evening the result of the election for aldermen in the wards was known to those who cared to make inquiries. There was no special jubilation about the city over the result, except among the personal friends of the successful candidates. The license issue was not a question, as the prohibitionists concluded to let the election go by default. Every candidate was looked on as an independent. If he made any pledges he made them to individuals and not to party combinations.

THE RESULT.

Those elected were K. Harwood, in the first ward; L. F. Muzzy, in the second; D. C. Moffit, in the third; Henry Metz, in the fourth, and Andrew Shoemaker, in the fifth. Below is the full vote:

FIRST WARD.

K Harwood	226
Franklin Priest	112
W. E Haworth	95
A. Harpstrite	75
Harwood over Priest	114

SECOND WARD.

L F. Muzzy	207
J. W. Bulman	110
Muzzy's majority	97

THIRD WARD.

D. C. Moffit	267
W. H. Bramble	120
Scattering	2
Moffit's majority	147

FOURTH WARD.

Henry Metz	156
H. C. Oakes	109
John Ryan	68
Scattering	1
Metz over Oakes	47

FIFTH WARD.

Andrew Shoemaker	222
Scattering	2

AT MACON.

The Prohibitionists carried the day, electing three aldermen—John Zollars, R. B. Richmond and Clinton Webb.

AT BLUE MOUND.

The license question was the issue, and the result was mixed—a majority of two for license. Temperance ticket—For trustees: S. M. Piper, 70; P. M. Seiberling, 66; John C. Rose, 66; Clerk, R. C. Rawlings, 94. People's ticket—For trustees: John McClure, 64; William Bacon, 65; Wm. Williams, 68. Rose and Seiberling will cast lots to settle the tie.

AT NIANTIC.

Anti-license won the contest. The vote was: No-license—For trustees: J. W. Pritchett, 73; C. A. Fernam, 64; W. R. Dingman, 66. Police magistrate, W. R. Kizer, 50; village clerk, W. W. Masters, 65. Independent ticket—For trustees: John Turner, 46; Charles Connaghrn, 53; Jacob Erisman, 50; village clerk, Charles Masters, 49; magistrate, J. P. Faris, 65. Mr. Faris was the only independent candidate elected.

Gone License—Joliet, Urbana, Belvidere, Woodstock, Sullivan, Rockford, Paxton, Monmouth, Kirkwood, Warren, Odell, Mt. Sterling, Lincoln, Sandoval, Mt. Vernon, Odin, Bement and Mansfield, Altamont, Macomb, Sorento, Huey, Du-Quoin, Marshall, Sparta, Taylorville, Champaign and Greenville.

Buys oats, corn, rye, barley, baled hay, baled straw—runs a first-class Feed Store. He sells hard coal, Decatur soft coal, all kinds of wood; sells more field and garden seeds than any other house in Central Illinois; has more room than all the houses in his lines in Decatur put together; runs his own teams, pays no rent, no cartage. Now you can see how he can sell Agricultural Implements cheaper than his competitors. They work about three months and pay rent and live the balance of the year on what they make off the farmer in the three selling months. Now come in and see if what I tell you is not so. I will sell you Farm Machinery and Binding Twine cheaper than they can sell, and don't you forget it.

Oreana News Notes.

School elections are over, and teachers can now make their applications.

Elder Sutherland, of Cerro Gordo, was with us on Sunday last and filled the Christian pulpit morning and evening. Mr. Sutherland is a new man in our place and was attentively listened to by quite a large audience. Though not very eloquent he gave us a splendid talk each time. The Christian people have not yet emp oyed a pastor.

Wheat and oats are looking fine and the plow is now sharing the soil in prospect of the corn crop.

On Friday evening, April 16th, a number of the young friends of Sammie Cooper went to his home to take him by surprise, it being his 27th birthday; but owing to some irregularity the surprise was not as complete as was hoped for. However a very enjoyable time was had; and that supper, prepared by his mother and sister, not to have done justice to it would have been impossible. Among those present we noticed Mr. and Mrs. Dunn, lately of Colorado. Mr. Dunn was at one time, it will be remembered, one of the prominent teachers of our county. His health has improved somewhat since he has been here. Late in the evening we all repaired to our homes, wishing Sam many happy birthdays and suppers.

April 20, '86. ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Dr. Blythe Acquitted.

Form Wednesday's Daily.

Shortly before six o'clock last evening the examination of Dr. J. M. Blythe, on trial before Justice Curtis, came to an end, the defendant being acquitted of the charge of having made an assault on Mrs. George W. Solland, the warrant having been sworn out by the husband of the young woman. Strong speeches were made on behalf of the People by State's Attorney Vail, and for the defense by Messrs. Johns and Buckingham, who gave Solland a scoring for the part he had taken in the prosecution on such alleged flimsy evidence. The crowd lingered until the last act in the investigation, and when Dr. Blythe was discharged the decision was generally approved, the dentist receiving the congratulations of his friends as he left the office. On the way to the corner he was taken by the hand by all his acquaintances and congratulated on his discharge.

After the Doctor was acquitted, Solland visited the office and forked over the $32 for filling his wife's teeth.

Bad News from Home.

At the close of the service last evening at the Christian church, Prof. Black received a telegram from Tuscola stating briefly that his son, Fred, aged 11 years, had been accidentally shot. The Prof. left for home on the 11 o'clock train. He telegraphed to-day that he could not preach in Decatur to-night, as the boy's arm is shattered and he cannot leave him. Rev. Pinkerton will occupy the the pulpit this evening.

The Alumni Committees.

The president of the High School Alumni association has appointed the committees for the ensuing year. They are:

Executive—Charles Denton, chairman; Will Heilman, Frank Roby, Ralph Templeton, Misses Beulah Whitsit, Lillie Chadsey and Lillie Brown.

Invitation—Miss Pet Buckingham, chairman: Miss Mary Lukens, Miss Clara Eyman, Will Wood and Heston Baldwin.

Literary—S. McClelland, chairman; James Roberts, Misses Faunie Ehrman, Annie Henkle and Mame Freeman.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. W. Ham is in Kansas.

George Hauss is going to Germany with his family to locate permanently.

Rev. Coultas and Dr. Dawson write that they arrived at California last Wednesday evening, "tired, dusty and sleepy."

Judge Greer is slowly regaining strength. He was able to walk to the third ward polls on Tuesday and cast his ballot for alderman.

Eli Ulery, the $150,000 farmer and stock raiser of Mt. Zion township, departed last evening for Colorado to visit his cattle ranch.

Jacksonville Journal: Miss Annabel Powers has resumed her studies at the Deaf and Dumb Asylum after a pleasant visit with her parents at Decatur.

Mrs. Robert Taylor, of Long Creek, will soon leave for the west to visit her sons, one of whom resides at Caldwell, Kansas, and the other at Modesto, California.

Dr. Cole, the dentist, is arranging to go to Europe with his family to spend several years. Mrs. Cole has been an invalid for eighteen months. It is believed the trip over the ocean will do her good.

Rev. A. C. Scott, pastor of the U. B. Church, has returned from Lexington, Ill., where he has been attending a Sabbath School Institute, conducted by Col. R. Cowden, of Gallion, Ohio. Rev. Scott will occupy his pulpit next Sunday as usual.

Charles Laux and O. F. Spaulding are home from Springfield where they attended the meeting of the hotel-keepers of the state yesterday. An association was formed with 100 charter members. Mr. L. and Mr. S. are among the vice presidents elected.

THE St. Louis Republican, in speaking of Gilmore's band at their great Exposition last fall, said: "To give the band their due, we have simply to say that it is the finest organization on earth."

IT ENRICHES THE SOIL.

Pat Clark and His Experience with Lime on Land—Big Crop.

Mr. Patrick Clark, the well-known farmer west of Decatur, is a man of original ideas and he always keeps up with the times. He came from New York state where the farmers use condemned lime in the soil to great advantage. He had had experience with the lime on the land there, and two years ago he decided to buy some to use on his place to make a test of the scheme. He set apart 10 acres of timber land, and procured 100 bushels of condemned lime at a greatly reduced price from Mr. David Martin, the Decatur lime merchant, and he put the lime on the land, giving 10 bushels to each acre. The lime kept the soil warm, kept the bugs and insects away, and as the land was sown in wheat that year it yielded an increase of 8 to 10 bushels to the acre over adjoining land on which no lime had been placed. Mr. Clark had no trouble at all with the 10 acres. The wheat seemed to flourish from the start. It was hardy and the grains were larger than from other fields. Mr. Clark planted the 10 acres in corn, and the entire field flourished through good and bad seasons, producing nearly 20 bushels to the acre more than the ground on which no lime was used. Specimens of the corn grown on the limed soil have been shown in the REPUBLICAN sanctum, and an ear is now in the office for inspection. Mr. Clark has demonstrated that air-slacked lime in the soil will produce better and greater crops. It is not an experiment. It is a success, and he cheerfully recommends that other farmers go and do likewise. Mr. Martin will no doubt supply farmers with condemned lime, suitable for the purpose, at moderate figures. His office is at the corner of Morgan and East Cerro Gordo streets.

OTHER TESTS.

Below we give additional tests with condemned lime, obtained from David Martin, this city.

In 1843 Mr. Law, who resides 4 miles south of Decatur, came to my kilns in Sangamon county, got a load of lime to check the progress of army worm on his meadow. Slacked and spread over while dew was on. Thirty-five years afterward he said he saw the effect of that lime for twenty years, and it was the most profitable investment he ever made.

Fifteen years ago E. Wade bought 100 bushels slacked lime, spread over his land, and next year his wheat yielded 15 bushels more to the acre. Recently he got a few more bushels for potatoes, and reports it a success—larger potatoes and better flavor.

Twelve years ago F. Abolitz had lime slack on his hands and hauling it on his cornfield it gave a result for the better that is apparent every year.

Mr G. M Kizer, of Moawequa, Ill., had ten barrels of lime to slack unsold. Offering a farmer to take and spread it on land and take payment in the increase of the first year's crop. In 1884 it was 16 bushels of wheat.

For years the Furrow family, in Sangamon county, were in the habit of mixing ashes and slack lime around their apple trees as far as the branches spread, and the result was they had early and fine crops, and sometimes it was the only orchard that bore fruit in that locality.

Farmers, feed your land, and it will feed you. I am prepared to give low prices on slack lime in car lots; also Land Plaster.

A TREACHEROUS DAM.

Long Pent-Up Waters Break Through Their Barriers and Run Wild,

Carrying Havoc and Death to the Unsuspecting Inhabitants of the Manufacturing Town of East Le.

One Whole Family Swept Out of Existence and Many Others Killed or Injured--Heartrending Scenes.

Lee, Mass., April 21.—The little hamlet of East Lee, two miles east of this place, was visited yesterday morning by a catastrophe which will ever remain a dark chapter in its history. A flood burst upon the inhabitants at sunrise which wrecked three-fourths of the dwellings and mills in the place, took the lives of eleven or more of its people, and did damage estimated at $200,000.

The town is situated on a brook, the outlet of Mud pond, which supplies several paper mills with running power, dams being built all along the stream for four miles. The main pond has an area of about one hundred and fifty acres, and was very deep. The dam which held the water back was thirty feet high and twenty-two feet wide. It was built nine years ago, and of late has been considered unsafe, but things were allowed to go along easy, one reason being that the dam was not near enough the houses, and, consequently, not under special observation, and people to-day are surprised to find how little they knew of it or its danger. They went along in their peaceful security, erecting their houses on the banks of the stream which was eventually to become a means of death.

Yesterday morning, a few minutes after five o'clock, a tremendous roaring was heard by early risers at Lee. They at once surmised the cause, and the ringing of the church bells and blowing of whistles aroused the whole town immediately. It was supposed that Goose pond, a large body of water, had broken away, in which event the town of Lee would have been in danger.

This alarm in Lee awoke people in East Lee, and they, hearing the crashing and roaring of the water and rock, although three or four miles away, rushed from their homes, some half-clad, others almost naked, but all flying for their lives, and they were none too soon. The great mass of water came pouring down the narrow way gullying the sides of the roads and the meadows, and strewing rocks, trees, houses and every thing conceivable in its wild rush. The path of the torrent varied from fifty to two hundred feet in width and when the waters became confined to narrow limits the destruction was terrible. A detailed account of the loss of property is impossible, for the scene of disaster baffles description. Great elm trees are uprooted. A mill wheel twenty feet in diameter lies out in an open lot a hundred and fifty feet from the brook and two miles from its flume. A large number of telegraph poles are broken in two. A huge engine and boiler, weighing several tons, resting twenty feet up the bank, is another evidence of the power of the raging torrent. From the dam the bursting waters flew into a large swamp of fifteen acres, from the end of which led the outlet brook. At this point the descent is abrupt, steep and winding. The brook turns like a snake in the ravine on its way to the village, three miles away, and it was here that the roaring commenced.

On entering the town the first obstacle encountered was a heavy iron and wooden bridge. Spectators who saw the wave as it entered and struck the bridge say it was about twenty feet high and sixty feet wide. It completely enveloped the bridge and carried it away.

Just below was the mill of John Dowd, which was completely wrecked. The dam was washed away, and with added weight the waters rushed on.

A rod further stood the house of Simeon Dowd. Mr. Dowd, seventy years old and rather infirm, had gone out a moment before to feed his chickens. He stopped but ten feet back of his house, but the water caught him and swept him into eternity. His wife stood paralyzed at the sight, but unable to assist him. Up to noon his body had not been recovered. Mr. Dowd leaves a wife and son. His house was turned on its side, but the other inmates escaped serious injury.

The saddest incident of the day was the fate of A. N. White, aged fifty; his wife, aged forty-five; their daughter, aged nine, and and the baby, nine months old. They occupied a house recently purchased with hard-earned savings, and were a happy, contented family, respected by all who knew them. When the fearful avalanche of water struck the house, Mr. White and his family had not risen. Their home was swept away without a moment's warning, and not a trace, not even the foundation stones, remains. The naked body of the man was found lodged in the crotch of a tree, two miles from his home. The body of his wife was forced by the swift current through the window of Garfield's paper mill, a mile below her home, and then so firmly lodged in the machinery that four men had a half hour's work to extricate it. The skull was crushed, both arms broken in several places, the legs broken and cut in shreds, and the eyes mutilated. It was a fearful spectacle, and strong men wept at the sight. Ida, a pretty child and much loved by the neighbors, met her death by drowning, but was badly bruised. The body of the infant has not yet been recovered.

Mrs. Theo. King, about forty-four years old, was carried from her room and drowned. She leaves two daughters.

Mrs. Charles King, of Housatonia, a relative, who was visiting at the house, was also carried away by the flood, and her body was recovered from a mass of debris.

Mrs. McCormic, an invalid, was carried out of the house on a mattress. Just as they left the door, the waters burst on them, and for a moment the two men holding the mattress, the woman and her baby clasped at her breast were whirled along. Fortunately only the edge of the torrent struck the party, and in another second they were landed high upon a sheltering bank.

During its awful course, the torrent utterly wrecked half a dozen dwellings, undermined Garfield's paper mill, swept away John White's carriage shops, and badly damaged Deckers, Verrano & Gilmore's paper mills and McLaughlin's machine shops.

Miss Sturgis, whose father's residence overlooked the frightful rush of waters, describes the scene as simply appalling, the very atmosphere seeming to be filled with flying bowlders, trees, housetops, and all in a whirl of muddy, foaming water. She was fortunate in being able to witness this without becoming a part actor in the frightful scene. Her father's barns, near by, were taken in the stream, but the house escaped uninjured.

Fortunately most of the inhabitants of the valley had sufficient warning of the the approaching danger and fled to the slopes along which the torrent was pouring.

The flood passed East Lee and went down the valley destroying gardens, lawns, fences and moving smaller buildings, but had not power to utterly wreck large buildings.

As soon as its force was spent the people went up the valley toward the pond, and found the ruin worse as they approached the starting point of the torrent. The scene is one of wild desolation and destruction.

The bodies recovered and identified so far are: A. N. White, wife and two daughters; Theodore King and wife, and the wife of Mr. King's son, Charles. Other persons living in the track of the flood are missing.

Mr. White was a veteran, and a member of Rockford G. A. R. of Pittsfield, which will see to his burial and that of his family. Charles King, reported dead, is badly injured, but his physicians think he will recover.

The calamity is clearly the result of carelessness on the part of the owners of the water-power, who had been notified of the dam's weakness. It throws a great many men out of employment and paralyzes East Lee's industry. Besides the property loss of $200,000, it will cost the town at least $20,000 to repair roads and pay costs.

THE FLOOD AT MONTREAL.

Nearly Two Million Dollars' Worth of Property Destroyed by the Inundation.

Montreal, Can., April 21—A few minutes before noon yesterday a slight movement of the ice was visible from the tower of the City hall, and shortly afterward the entire field, which for the last six days has remained steadfast in front of the city, moved out. The movement became general, and as the huge fields of lake ice forced themselves into the channel opposite Lougue Isle, a passage was quickly opened which by one o'clock had almost cleared the river in front of the city. The water commenced receding with extraordinary rapidity, and in less than an hour the register at the harbor commissioner's showed a fall of eighteen inches. Nuns' island once more commenced to reassert itself. The houses on the Lachine road, St. Gabriel, on the south side, were again free from water, and the country beyond and in the rear of La Prairie was almost free from the inundation. All along St. Lombard shore, and extending far back into the fields, the country is white with ice deposited by the water. This is easily discernible as far as Brosseus and on the other side of the Grand Trunk track.

The shove which cleared the harbor appeared to block again just at the head of Boucherville Island, and for about half an hour the water rose very rapidly in the vicinity of Lougue Isle.

About 2 p. m. the ice moved again, and appeared to be clear as far as the other end of Boucherville Island in both channels. By midnight the city was free from water except the sewage and back water.

The scene where but a few hours ago water was five or six feet deep in houses and streets is one of desolation. Mud is everywhere so deep that walking or driving is impossible. Sidewalks torn up by the water have disappeared down the river, over seven miles of sidewalks being carried away.

The following is a fair estimate of damages: Wholesale dry goods, $250,000; retail dry goods, $75,000; wholesale grocers, $230,000; retail grocers, $100,000; wholesale hatters, $50,000; wholesale furriers, $150,000; wholesale clothiers, $100,000; retail clothiers, $200,000; sugar refineries, $200,000; various factories, $150,000; furniture dealers, $25,000; provision dealers, $25,000; millinery, wholesale, $25,000; boot and shoe manufactories, $55,000; warehouse goods in bond, $25,000; saloons and liquors, $20,000; Grand Trunk workshops, $20,000; Grand Trunk track and cars, $10,000; Central Vermont track and cars, $500; total, $1,745,000. To this should be added at least $100,000 damage to small stocks. It will cost $20,000 to repair the streets, while the gas company and the electric light company are losers to the amount of $10,000 each.

The following telegram was received yesterday:

Ottawa, Ont., April 20, 1886.

To his Worship, the Mayor of Montreal:—His Excellency has received the following cablegram from the Secretary of State for the Colonies:

"I have heard with regret the accounts of the floods in Montreal. I trust the damage is not so serious as represented. I greatly sympathize with the sufferers.

[Signed] Granville."

Will you kindly enable him to answer Lord Granville's questions as to the extent of the injury?

[Signed] H. Streatfield, Governor-General's Secretary.

In answer the following was dispatched:

Montreal, April 20.

His Excellency, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Ottawa: Although the damage to property is serious, I am happy to say that the water is receding and the flood is practically over. Montreal thanks Her Majesty's Government for sympathies extended under the circumstances.

[Signed] H. Beaugrand, Mayor.

The relief committee has been busy all day, and has alleviated all suffering by a generous distribution of food. The City Council gave $20,000 for this purpose Monday night. The streets are now free from water.

Sick of Confinement.

Springfield, Mo., April 21.—Cora Lee, through her attorney, Judge Jas. Baker, applied to Judge Wallace yesterday for a writ of habeas corpus to secure her release, or at least to be admitted to bail. The writ was ordered, and will be argued at Bolivar Thursday, at which place Cora is confined in jail. Judge Baker was accompanied by Mrs. Molloy, who will probably remain with Cora, who is reported suffering with an attack of typhoid fever.

Geo. E. Graham, in the Springfield jail, was also sick enough yesterday to require the attendance of a physician.

The General Shaler Trial.

New York, April 21.—In the Shaler trial yesterday the evidence for the defense was commenced. The time was principally occupied with the testimony of the defendant, but the evidence was similar to that given at the first trial. The case is still on.

In London now there are nearly 100 clubs—that is, tavern clubs where men eat, drink, and be sad—and some of them are a full century old.

Patti vigorously resents the imputation that her popularity is on the wane. She asserts that her three concerts in Paris averaged $8,000 a night, and that her reception was most cordial.

Mr. Tilden says his only indisposition is a throat affection which prevents him from talking.

Mr. Cleveland grows fat on White House fare. He is forty-one pounds heavier now than at this time last year.

The United States is now run by an old bachelor and an old maid. It is to be hoped both "will strike"—a match.

Gladstone is not backed up by a single leading daily newspaper of London in his Irish home rule. But the old gentleman doesn't seem to care.

A society of bachelors has been organized in New York. Five hundred dollars is paid each member on his marriage day. The last fellow will have a slim chance.

Death of Major Smallwood.

Thursday Major George D. Smallwood died near Clinton, aged 76 years. The deceased was a brother of Uncle Samuel Smallwood, who resides north of Decatur. He was one of the early settlers of DeWitt county, and a veteran of the Black Hawk war, serving under General Stillman. He was born in Ross county, Ohio, on the 31st of March, 1810. His parents were natives of Virginia; their ancestors were of Irish extraction. The Smallwood family came to Illinois in 1825, and settled near Decatur. There were fifteen children in the family, George being the second oldest. In 1830 George D. Smallwood settled on Salt Creek, in DeWitt county, and built a cabin, near which, four years later, his father built a mill which has since been known as as Smallwood's mill.

DAVISON IN TROUBLE AGAIN.

Resolutions Denouncing His Course—His Thin Lottery Scheme.

From Friday's Daily.

At a meeting of officers and directors of the Macon Co. Protective Association, held Thursday evening, April 15th, at which all the members were present excepting Dr. A. P. Boxsey, director, and J. G. Shea, vice-president, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, W. B. Davison, manager of Macon County Protective Association, of his own action, and without the knowledge or consent of this association, or any of the members thereof, did originate a scheme to engraft a kind of lottery attachment to said association; and

WHEREAS, Said scheme is undignified and disreputable as well as a violation of the United States government postal laws; and

WHEREAS, He did sign to certain circulars our names without having obtained our consent, thereby compromising our reputations as well as the reputation of this association; therefore be it

Resolved, By this association that we most heartily condemn any such scheme and denounce the conduct that led to its enactment, and that on account of said W. B. Davison having so far transcended his duties as an officer of this association, we uncompromisingly demand his immediate resignation.

Resolved, That while we deeply deplore the circumstances that lead us to this step, we cannot overlook violations of law and usurpations like this in men holding official positions in institutions chartered by the state of Illinois.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in all the papers published in this city.

DAVISON'S PERSONAL SCHEME.

W. B. Davison has had a checkered experience while in Decatur, but has managed to retain his liberty. District Attorney Van Hoorbecke, of the United States court at Springfield, visited Decatur yesterday and called at the office of the Protective Association, north side of the Park, where from Secretary Clark he learned that the objectionable lottery circular headed "Look and Read This," had been sent through the mails by Manager Davison. The following is the plan as taken from one of the circulars, 5,000 of which were printed by order of Davison the latter part of the winter:

Now then, what the officers of the Macon County Protective Association propose to do, is just this, they propose to set aside one dollar of each admission fee that is paid in cash, or good note on short time, and when said fund amounts to ($5,000) five thousand dollars, or when this association has got 5,000 good paying members, they will divide this sum into 182 prizes, to be drawn by the members who hold the lucky tickets. Each member will receive with his or her certificate a ticket numbered. The duplicate of each ticket will be placed in an iron box with no opening except a narrow slot on top, and at the first annual meeting after we have got 5,000 good members on our books, the box will be opened in the presence or all members present. A committee will be appointed of members. A boy will be blindfolded and every (27th) twenty-seventh ticket he draws will draw a prize, until 182 prize tickets are drawn. The prizes will be divided as follows:

Two prizes of $500.00 each; ten prizes of $100.00 each; twenty prizes of $50 00 each; fifty prizes of $20.00 each; fifty prizes of $10.00 each; fifty prizes $5.00. Total number of prizes, 182. Amount drawn, $5,000 00.

This plan leaves one member out of every twenty-seven sure of a prize. The first 27th ticket draws one $500.00 prize, and the last ticket takes the other.

The fact that these circulars were going through the mails in violation of law came to the notice of the authorities, and at once Mr. Van Hoorbecke called at the office. Manager Davison left for Springfield on the first train to explain the matter to the court, and to receive his punishment if it is ordered.

The first thing Davison did after getting the circulars was to mail copies to about fifty postmasters, asking them to secure local agents. The membership fees are $4 to $8, all of which goes to the manager for his services. The dues are a dollar a year and that money goes to the secretary in payment for his work. The association was formed in November of last year and there are now about 325 members on the books. It is a life insurance company on the co-operative plan, the policies ranging from $1,000 to $3,000.

Davison's Resignation.

From Saturday's Daily.

At the meeting of the officers of the Macon County Protective Association, held last night, W. B. Davison, manager, who had returned from Springfield, was present. The officers officially requested his resignation as manager of the enterprise, and he reluctantly complied, and therefore he is no longer connected with the institution. It is admitted that Mr. Davison violated the postal regulations in sending the lottery circulars through the mails, but what action the United States authorities will take in the matter remains to be seen. There has been no move as yet. All of the objectionable circulars have been destroyed.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Fight About a Kettle.

From Saturday's Daily.

David and Jacob Longnecker are brothers and they live on adjoining farms northeast of the city six to eight miles. At a sale not long ago one of the brothers bought a copper kettle and this forenoon they had a quarrel about it. David called Jacob a vile name and Jake gave him a reply about trying to dishonor his wife that caused David to become very wrathy. A fight in the highway ensued. Jacob got his arm around his brother's neck and held on to his cheek with his teeth, while David beat a tattoo on Jake's head with his fists. Then Eve, wife of David, came to the rescue with a club and beat Jake over the head until he loosened his hold on her husband. Then David rushed away for a paling with which he struck his brother several heavy blows. Jake came to the city, got Dr. Hostetler to dress the deep cuts on his head, and then went before Justice Curtis and swore out a warrant for the arrest of David and his wife. The foregoing is Jacob's story of the fight. The parties will be brought to Decatur for trial next week.

Excitement In Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Texas, by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of Consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Trial bottle of this Great Discovery for Consumption free at Swearingen & Hubbard's. a2

A GEORGIA newspaper alludes to "the peasantry of the party who carry the principles to victory." "Peasantry" is good. Since when did Georgia get voters of this class? They are lacking in every other State in the Union.

THOSE who believe that nature will work off a cough or cold should understand that this is done at the expense of the constitution. Each time this weakens the system, and we all know that the termination of this dangerous practice is a consumptive's grave. Don't take the chances, when a fifty-cent bottle of Dr. Bigelow's Positive Cure will safely and promptly cure any recent cough, cold or throat or lung trouble. Buy the dollar bottle of Dr. A. J. Stoner for chronic cases or family use. 3

NOTWITHSTANDING the depression in trade and the general shrinkage of values in the country, Great Britain's expenditure for intoxicating liquors last year was not less than $505,433,800. This is equal to the Nation's entire outlay for bread, butter, cheese and eggs.

That Old Agricultural Implement House North of the old square is again opened, and V. H. Parke is at the head. He says he has more room, more goods bought lower, and can sell cheaper than any house in Central Illinois, and he means just what he says. Get the other prices and then come and get his, and if his prices are not 20 per cent. lower for the same class of goods, tell him so, take a cigar and go some place else to buy. His wagons, spring wagons, and binding twine are now on the road and will be here soon, then his opposition will squeal more than ever. Come in and get a sample of his twine. He is on deck every time.

THOUSANDS of cases of

SICK

Headache are permanently cured every year (as the hundreds of testimonials in my possession will testify,) by the use of

DR. LESLIE'S

Special Prescription. This remedy stands to day without a rival, and with scarcely a competitor in the world. Thousands of physicians throughout the country have acknowledged their inability to cure it, and are now prescribing Dr. Leslie's Prescription for a. cases of Sick in either its nervous, bilious or congestive form, arising from obstruction, congestion or torpidity of the liver. When I say that Dr. Leslie's

HEADACHE

SPECIAL

Prescription will cure the most obdurate cases of Sick Headache, I mean just what I say, and that is, that it not merely relieves but cures, no matter how long the case may have been standing.

I have testimonials from persons who have been afflicted for twenty years, being confined to bed two or three days at a time every two weeks, that have been permanently cured by two bottles of Dr. Leslie's Special so that they have not had an attack for over five years.

If you are troubled with Sick Headache and wish to be

LOCAL NEWS.

E. B. PRATT broke ground Saturday for an addition to his residence, North Church street.

THE trees are budding and the blue birds are singing.

THE Guards are home, and some of the boys are glad of the change—to soft mattresses and feather beds.

THE Christian church ministers of the state are holding a conference at Springfield this week. Rev. N. S. Haynes, of Peoria, is in attendance.

SPRING is here, and so is an unusually large consignment of fashionable carpets and stylish wall paper at Abel & Locke's establishment. Call there for bargains.

THE Uniform Degree Staff of Odd Fellows will leave on Sunday next on a special train for Cairo to attend the anniversary celebration and take part in a big parade.

THE Doris circus is booked to appear in Decatur on April 28th. The Wabash has received notice to make arrangements for transportation out of town for the outfit. But where is the agent?

ON Sunday Peck & Co.'s delivery horses were placed in a lot together to nibble green grass. They became playful. One kicked the other, and the mare worth $150 had her leg broken. She was killed. This morning Mr. Cann was about looking for a new horse.

THUS sings the poet of an eastern sporting paper—

The chilly Winter's on the wane,
The hopes of base-ball men are high.
And the umpire soon will be round again
With a broken nose and a blackened eye.

SATURDAY night closed the week's engagement of the Basye dramatic company, which was not a brilliant success financially, though the manager did not lose money. The company is one of merit at people's prices, and pleased the audiences. The combination will appear at Danville this week.

E. J. LOOMIS, who lives four miles northwest of Decatur, met with a serious accident. A colt fell on his leg and sprained his knee very badly. This was nearly three weeks ago. He is still confined to his bed and suffers much pain. To-day a physician was again called out to give him a more thorough examination.

Lotteries in Churches Unlawful.

The Charleston Plaindealer says: "Judge Hughes did not forget to instruct the grand jury that a lottery was none the less unlawful because it was carried on at a church festival. This is well. The idea of getting money or other valuables without giving an equivalent is demoralizing, and it is useless to cry out, lustily, when some great wrong is committed, so long as wrong doing is winked at in the beginning."

A Fire at Midnight.

From Monday's Daily.

The home of Frank Gring, a one story frame dwelling, is in ashes. It was located on the south side of the Springfield road, below the entrance to Oakland Park, and west of the St. Louis branch of the Wabash railway, and was destroyed by fire soon after 12 o'clock last night. The fire was discovered by the engineer and fireman of the Chicago express train from St. Louis, and the train slacked up to let the fireman get off to wake up the family. The fireman then walked to the depot. All of the contents of the house were saved, but the dwelling was consumed. Mr. Gring cannot explain how the house caught fire. Some think it was of incendiary origin. Mr. Gring has been sick for some weeks. The dwelling was worth $600 to $800, and was insured with Randolph & Gher in the "Niagara" for $300; personal property $100 in same company.

At Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Edward B. Krone took place Sunday afternoon from Stapp's Chapel. The audience room was completely filled by members of the church and sympathizing friends. The services were deeply impressive, and were conducted by Rev. George Stevens, the pastor, assisted by Rev. Robert Hiner, of Kentucky. Music was furnished by Mrs. J. P Boyd, Miss Ruth Hammer, Will Shellabarger and Sherman McClelland; S. M. Lutz, organist. There was a generous display of beautiful floral offerings. The remains were interred in Greenwood cemetery, in the presence of a large assembly of friends, who heard the last words of promise and hope expressed by the clergyman. The pallbearers were Morgan English, Oscar Lyter, Will Hubbard, Will Werner, Rufus Braden and Sol Ray.

Can't Come In, You Bet.

One dealer said, yesterday: "Them prices won t do; goods must be old." Now, in all candor, V. H. Parke asks you to come and see the goods and learn the prices. One and one-half cars of Binding Twine, and also one car of Wagons on the road; will be in soon. Get the other dealer's prices, then come in and compare. I mean business. More Field and Garden Seeds than you ever saw, all fresh and pure. apr8-wtf

"HAMLET" was recently performed in London to a houseful of deaf mutes.

THE OLD PASTOR'S WELCOME.

Two Sermons by Rev. Robert Hiner at the Methodist Church on Sunday.

From Monday's Daily.

The Rev. Robert Hiner, of Louisville, Kentucky, where he has been the Methodist presiding elder for 11 years, occupied the pulpit at the First M. E. Church Sunday morning and evening, and at both services the large audience room was filled by attentive congregations. The subject at the morning hour was the 14th, 15th and 16th verses of the 4th chapter of Romans, when Rev. Hiner spoke for one hour and thirty minutes. At night the text was the 16th to 18th verses of the 16th chapter of Matthew, the clergyman speaking for one hour and ten minutes.

Both sermons were thoughtful and scholarly efforts, and commanded the closest attention. Rev. Hiner was the pastor of the Decatur church 21 years ago. He is a man of fine appearance, and has a fine voice and excellent delivery.

The personal greetings of the visiting clergyman during his stay in Decatur have been of a cordial character, and it will be with reluctance that he will leave for home to-morrow.

PROF. BLACK will remain in Decatur another week, preaching at the Christian church. He had two big congregations on Sunday, and one confession at the morning service. He will deliver an Easter address next Sabbath at the opera house, when the Knights Templar will attend in a body.

ON Sunday morning the Rev. Ezra B. Newcombe, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, occupied the pulpit at the Presbyterian church. His subject was "The Unsearchable Riches of Christ," and was well handled. Rev. N. is a young man, a brother of Mrs. Hiram Cole, and is in charge of a church at Ft. Dodge. Rev. Prestley occupied the pulpit at the evening service.

About 1800 Converts.

Rev. Thomas Harrison will end his stay in Springfield with a jubilee service to night. He has been conducting a remarkably successful revival for 14 full weeks, and has secured about 1800 conversions.

Gave Up $1,000.

Rev. Thomas Harrison recently sent $1,000 to Bishop Taylor for missionary work in Africa. Thus it will be seen that the "boy preacher" does not hoard up his money, but does his part toward extending missionary work abroad, while at home he accomplishes more good than all the Sam Joneses in the land put together. He will close his work at Springfield to-night.

THE NEW $12,000 CHURCH.

Part of the Contract Let for the English Lutheran House of Worship.

H. M. Whitmer, M. L Deck and A. G. Webber are busy just now letting the contract for the erection of a handsome new brick church, to be built this season, for the English Lutheran congregation, on the northwest corner of North Main and William streets. The plans were drawn by the architect, M. G. Patterson, and the photograph shows the structure to be quite similar in general appearance to the First M. E. Church, only on a smaller scale, and the interior of the audience and lecture rooms are much the same. The new church will be handsome in its external appearance. It will be 50x100 feet in size, set in ten feet from the pavement. The spire will be 120 feet high, and there will be three entrances, two from North Main and one on the south side at the west end. The audience and lecture rooms will be each 70x40 feet in dimensions, and in the audience room will be an arched organ loft, the pulpit to be below and in front, with rooms on each side for the use of the pastor and the choir. The roof is to be of slate, and considerable Dayton stone will be used for ornamentation. About 400,000 brick will be used. The improvement will cost about $12,000. Mr. Patterson will direct the work.

The stone contract has been let to John I. Pasold for $1,000, and Frank Ebert will put on the slate for $1,000.

The brick and other work will be let to contractors on Tuesday.

A Good-Bye Party.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Rose will soon reside permanently at Englewood, near Chicago. Mr. Rose was for many years general foreman for the Wabash in Decatur, but is now general superintendent of the Nickel Plate railway shops at Stoney Island, where he has been on duty for some months. The couple were given a good-bye surprise party Saturday night at their home on East North street, the same being arranged by Mrs. Clinton Haag. An abundance of edibles were brought by the callers and a fine banquet was served. The callers were G. A. Hurd, Wm. Dodson, A. Shoemaker, R. L. Perry, W. R. Buckmaster, Charles McCandless, George Handy, John A. Brown and J. T. Denton and their wives; Mesdames C. Haag, Wm. Silsbee, M. Falkenberg, Lou Hart, C. L. Handy, M. E. Handy, H. Snarr, James Snarr, James Sears and W. E. Clark; Misses Maud Sears, Grace and Chloe Shoemaker, Hattie Michl, Annie Perry, Lida Handy and Thebe Haag; Messrs. Auzi Baker and Gus Wilmeth, and others. The party was a very enjoyable one and many were the good wishes tendered the Rose family.

LETTER FROM G. S. MORRISON.

FRISCO, KANSAS, April 12—EDS REPUBLICAN: To fulfill a promise made when leaving home to many friends, of writing an occasional letter to your valuable paper, I will now endeavor to do so. Not being a paper correspondent, you must look over deficiencies. Myself and son, Howard, left Forsyth March 23d, at 12, noon, via Midland Railway, to Peoria, then by the C., B. & Q to Kansas City; reached Kansas City 9 a. m. March 24th. Crowds of strikers were at the Union depot. Left Kansas City at 10:40 for Lakin, Kansas, A. T. & S. F. road, arriving at 7 a. m. the next morning; found everything booming. Left Lakin Friday noon, 26th, for Frisco; reached McConnell's Ranch at dark, put up for the night—slept in a stall of sod stable; cold rain blew in on us before morning. Left early in the morning; reached Shockey's Ranch nine o'clock in rain and snow storm; icicles sticking to wire fence at the ranch. We put up at New Hotel, Wm. Chamberlain, proprietor, and a very accommodating man. We found him well snowed up till Monday morning, when we left Shockey's for Veteran at 9 o'clock, and traveled all day through the snow, from three to six inches deep; lost the trail some five or six times, but got through, and on account of being a tender-foot, have a new skin on my nose and most of my face, from the hot sun's reflection on the snow. We stayed at Veteran all night; there was a delegation from Syracuse came down in the interest of the county seat; we had several flowing speeches by representatives from Kendle and Syracuse, both aspiring for the honors of the county seat. The election since was in favor of Syracuse. We had the pleasure of sleeping on the floor that night. Left Veteran in morning for Richfield and Frisco; got to Richfield about five o'clock; stayed all night. Started again in morning for the claim; arrived about noon. Put up the tent and then to housekeeping; found several improvements on claim, but no tenants.

Will write more soon in regard to the country. After our trip they need not call us "tender-foot." G. S. MORRISON.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Charley Logan is in St Louis, receiving $5 a day in the L. & N. yard.

Miss Castle, the actress, fainted at the close of the sword combat scene Saturday night, and the "French Spy" was brought to a close soon after. Miss Castle had been ill all week.

V. H. PARKE was over to Mt. Pulaski on last Saturday. His prices on farm machinery had got there ahead of him. A prominent dealer said, "How can you make such prices?" V. H told him the secret, and he saw it. It was this buying for cash and taking off all the cash discount; make low prices, draw trade a long distance. You will get all the best trade, I se no money. Let the long-winded buyers go somewhere else. As a rule the farmers are good business men, and they won't buy until they see him. When they want a corn planter or check rower, they know the difference between $46 00 and $56 00, Binding Twine, No Bottom, Wagons in the same fix. apr8-wtf

HE HIT THE CASE.

A Kind Gentleman Whose Writing Proved Him to Be a Married Man.

A stranger was yesterday writing a letter at the desk in the corridor of the post-office when a woman with a postal card in one hand and the other tied up in a handkerchief came walking up and eyed him in a wistful manner.

"Ah! you want to write a card, madam," he observed.

"I don't believe I can, sir. I have a letter from my husband, who is in Cincinnati, and I want to let him know I got it."

"I see. Give me the card his name is ——?"

"Peter Jones, sir."

"Exactly. Peter Jones, Esq., Cincinnati, O. Now then."

He turned the card over and rapidly wrote:

"Mr. Jones—Your letter, the first for three weeks, is at hand, and the two dollar bill has been noted. I am half sick, out of wood and provisions, and tired of lying to the landlord. Either come home and attend to business or change your name to No Good and never dare to address me again. I am, sir, your patient, but determined wife."

He read it to her in a well-modulated voice, and she held up her well hand and exclaimed:

"Oh! thanks! That's beautiful. Why, I couldn't have done so well in a week! You must surely be a married man yourself!"

She trotted away to mail it, and went out of the office with a smile all over her face.—Detroit Free Press.

—Once a shepherd, caught out upon the hills by night, built a fire under the lee of a pile of stones that he had tossed together. The heat split some of the stones, and in the morning the man saw within one of the cracks a piece of shining silver ore. That happened in Peru, and thus was discovered the mines of the Cerro de Pasco, which have yielded four hundred million dollars.—Boston Budget.

THE GUARDS AT HOME.

They are Given a Warm Reception on Palm Sunday.

If the Trouble Continues They Will Return in Six Weeks.

From Monday's Daily.

The glad news was received from Captain Wells late Saturday evening that the Decatur Guards would return home on Sunday noon from East St. Louis, where they appeared promptly for duty on that memorable night—Friday, April 9th. They were the second company to arrive at the scene, and they were the first company to do duty, being called out by a raging fire at the Louisville and Nashville yards. In the midst of the excitement they marched bravely among the strikers and hoodlums to the scene, led by Capt. Wells who was in his glory fighting the fire and placing his men to protect the property. The boys were kept on the go nearly all that night, without supper, and they had but an hour's sleep. They had to hustle for rations and got no allowance from regimental headquarters until Saturday noon. Since that night of the 9th the company in three reliefs have simply guarded the L. & N. yard, extending a distance of six blocks in length and about a block wide. There was no company, battalion or regimental drilling, simply eating, sleeping and picket and guard duty. No strikers or trespassers were allowed in the yards and parties who disobeyed orders to move on were promptly hustled off to the guard house at the point of the bayonet.

THE RECEPTION.

Sunday noon the Guards came home on a regular Wabash train, occupying a special coach. As the train moved in to the platform the Guards were heard singing "Marching Though Georgia," and as they filed out of the car Goodman's band played a lively air. The platform was filled from end to end with people, and many stood near the street cars in the yard. There was a glad expression on every countenance and in nearly every heart there was a feeling of pride and thankfulness that the company of young men had bravely done their duty and had returned from the scene of the trouble alive and well. Captain Wells drew his company up in line, when the anxious and happy mothers and wives of the members with many citizens passed along and bade all a cordial welcome home. Soon after the procession formed with Ray Ringland as drum major at the head of the band, and the Guards were escorted to the armory by Major Elwood, members of Dunham Post No 141 G. A. R., the mayor and members of the council, many ladies and citizens generally. Along the line of march flags were unfurled at the residences of George D. Haworth, James W. Haworth, D S. Shellabarger, and at other dwellings, while upon the verandahs stood ladies who greeted the militia with bows and waving of handkerchiefs.

The 45 men, all tanned and hearty looking, filed into the armory where the company was promptly dismissed by Sergeant Colladay, and then there was a general personal greeting by the citizens who filled the room. Boxes of cigars were showered upon the Guards by D. A. Maffit, W. W. Foster and others, and after relating fragments of experience at the front to inquiring friends, the soldiers hurried away to warm dinners and the comforts of home. The company may not be called out again.

The companies relieved from duty Sunday morning were Co H, 5th Reg't, Decatur; Co. K, 8th Reg't, Nashville; Co C, 5th Reg't, Springfield; Co. H, 8th Reg't, Paris. Those companies called to take their places were from Peoria, Carthage, Delavan and Farmington.

The plan of Gen. Vance is to allow four companies that have been on duty to go home and relieve them by four new ones. This rotation will be observed until the whole 4,000 militia force of the state shall have seen service, and the rotation repeated as often as necessary. By this method the men may be kept at East St. Louis only a week or two at a time, the turns of each company only to occur once in five or six weeks, and by the time each company has seen one week's service it is much more than probable that the trouble will have been settled. There are about 4,000 in the state militia, and with the force now in the field it would take six weeks to secure all of them one week's service at that ratio, and this is the plan to be followed. Besides the service the militia will be rendering to the state, the discipline and actual experience will be worth to the men all the trouble and inconvenience they may encounter in a military point of view, being considered by some much more practical than reunions and encampments. By this rotation the men will be absent from their business and employments only one week in six, and would, if the occasion lasts, give them all a real taste of real military life.

ONE WRITER'S HISTORY.

SOMETHING ABOUT FRANK WILKESON AND HIS WORK.

A Few Facts About This Writer of Delightful Sketches—A Man Who Prefers Wild Mountain Life to City Pleasures and Honors.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—I read Frank Wilkeson's sketches in The Sun, of this city, several years before I ever met him. They were interesting to me in subject as well as style. He wrote of wild life—the people who dwelt in lonely cabins in the woods and on the plains of the west, and of the untamed people in the mountains and forests of the south. His subjects were delightfully fresh, and were treated with such forceful simplicity and warm interest that one could immediately see that the writer was one who wrote because he wanted to tell something that interested him deeply, and in no sense resembled the numberless writers who scour the earth continually for subjects to "write up" or "write down," till one wearies at the very sight of their names.

One cannot fail to see by Frank Wilkeson's literary work that he loves nature and natural people, and has no liking for shams or pretenders. His sketches are among the choicest contributions to journalistic literature, yet I doubt if many of his readers and admirers know anything about the man himself.

He was born in Buffalo, this state, and is the youngest son of Samuel Wilkeson, the journalist, and was 38 years old in March. The late civil war made a soldier of him before he was 16 years old. He ran away from home and enlisted in a battery of volunteer artillery. He served as a cannoneer in the Army of the Potomac through all the fighting from the Wilderness to the front of Petersburg; was mustered out at the end of his term of enlistment; re-enlisted in the regular army, and on the same day was promoted from the ranks to a lieutenantcy in the Fourth United States artillery.

A brevet captain in the regular army at the age of a little over 18, he resigned his commission to enter a school of mathematics, preparatory to his chosen life-work of a mining engineer. In 1867 he went into the service of the Cambria Iron company, in Pennsylvania, to qualify himself for the management of their underground property. He worked as a miner of coal and iron ore for two years. Then, on a disagreement with the Cambria owners, he accepted employment from the Northern Pacific Railroad company as a civil engineer, and for two years took part in locating surveys for that corporation's main line through the Rocky mountains in Montana, across the plains of the Columbia, down the north bank of the Columbia river, down the eastern side of Puget sound, and across the Cascade mountains by many routes. He also explored for the Northern Pacific company the eastern slope of the Rocky range, from the Deer Lodge pass to the north of the Assinaboine river, for coal, iron and copper, and hunted the east bank of the Missouri river, above Bismarck, for bituminous coal. During all this adventurous, and then most dangerous, service, he had a 1,400 acre farm in Kansas, and on it a wife and a baby. These finally pulled him out of engineering and he settled down in Kansas to raise cattle and grow wheat. Being a mighty hunter, he enlivened the terribly tame business of cattle raising with bird shooting on the prairies and elk hunting on the Rocky mountains, as well as a little prospecting for gold and silver, and much consorting with hunters and prospectors in the Medicine Bow range. He frequently wrote his experiences for The Sun, of this city, sketches that will be long and pleasantly remembered by all who read them. Finally he freed himself from the Kansas ranch by leasing it, and bought a gold placer in the Douglas mining district in Wyoming territory, in sight of the high Rabbit Ear peak, and purchased a deserted log palace on the bank of a roaring mountain stream, furnished and stocked it, and settled down with his wife and two boys to enjoy life rationally, and wash out gold in the intervals when he was not deep in the forest with his blankets and rifle. Altogether, he lived on the plains and in the Rocky mountains fourteen years. Eastern by birth and nurture, he is western in every fiber of his body.

In 1884, to get near to his father, whom he tenderly loves, and who lives in New York city, he built a house in Bridge Hampton, at the east end of Long Island. There he now resides. But he yet owns the gold placer and the log palace in the Medicine Bow mountains, and elk and deer and beaver come into his sleep, and nightly he hears the voices of the forest calling to him to come home.

Mr. Wilkeson is a man of tremendous physical force as well as strong and fine mentality. He has a large physique, a handsome head set on a neck like a massive column of brown stone, big clear eyes full of kindness, and a voice rich and deep and full of sweet tones—such a voice as no man not honest and kindly could be gifted with. He could be what is called great if he chose to figure where the world's prizes are offered. He has the force and capacity to achieve extraordinary things. He has, however, chosen to live out of the contest as much as possible. With his family, his dogs, guns and love of nature and nature's wildnesses he finds deeper joys than the strife of life affords.

He writes only when the mood seizes him, and never to order, as many unlucky souls are compelled to do. He makes a recreation rather than a profession of it. For that reason what he does write has a force and freshness that make themselves felt.

He is a pleasing talker, with a fund of rich experiences of a kind not common; but in conversation he is modest and deferential—never egotistical. With the exception of Prentice Mulford, I know no writer who loves the wilderness so well, or who has had so much experience in wild life, in the mountainous mining districts. Yet both these men have more warm sympathy with their fellow-men than one often finds in those who call themselves philanthropists. Both are thinkers on the problems that affect the welfare of humanity, and are always on the humanitarian side. Both, too, were born and brought up in the east, and both are western by nature in every particular.

Mr. Wilkeson's chirography is as neat and perfect as pen can make it. His manuscript is a joy to editors, and his private letters are models of courtesy and kindness. He expects to go to the Rocky mountains on a long trip during the coming summer, and will treat the public to some more charming pictures of wild western life.

GERTRUDE GARRISON.

Adam Badeau says that during the lifetime of John Brown the intimacy of the girlie with the queen was almost as disagreeable to the royal children as the marriage of Lord Lorne, and sometimes, in private, late at dinner, the Prince of Wales would parody the loyal toast at public entertainments, and drink: "To the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, John Brown, and the rest of the royal family."

How a Strike is Ordered.

New York Evening Post.

The latest phenomenon in the "labor question" is the closing of a silk mill in Patterson employing 1200 hands. A cigar-maker from Albany, holding some sort of position among the Knights of labor, went down there a few days ago, and insisted on having important changes made in the management of the dye-house. Being denied, he "snapped his fingers" as he passed through the factory, and thereupon every man and boy in it quit work. None of them knew why the cigar-maker snapped his fingers, and they say now it was tyrannical of him to do so, but they quit work all the same. The local assembly has since waited on the proprietor, Mr. Strange, to say it was all a mistake and ask him to take the strikers back; but on ascertaining that the cigar-maker had not been expelled or even censured for snapping his fingers, he refused to do so, and will not reopen the mill as long as his business is at the mercy of wandering cigar-makers. There is a comic side to nearly everything, and the comic side of this is that a body of men who can be made to abandon their means of livelihood on receiving a sign from an unknown man complain bitterly of "the tyranny of capital." In this city the drivers and conductors on the Fourth Avenue Railroad, after having settled all their differences with their own employers, struck again, without knowing why, on having two fingers held up to them by a man who walked along the track. And yet these men are American citizens, and look down on the Russians and Prussians and Italians.

Asylum Children.

A company of children, mostly boys, aged from 7 to 15 years, from the New York Juvenile Asylum, will arrive in Decatur, at the New Deming Hotel, Wednesday morning, April 28th. Homes are wanted for them with families where they will receive kind treatment, and enjoy fair advantages. They are mostly of respectable parentage, promising and desirable, and worthy of good homes. They may be taken on trial for several weeks, and afterwards, if all parties are suited, they will be indentured until of age. Persons desiring to take these children on trial are requested to meet them at the New Deming Hotel Wednesday forenoon, April 28th, as they will remain but one day in Decatur. For further information, inquire at your postoffice for handbill giving full particulars.

apr15-w2w E. WRIGHT, Agent.

CHICAGO Daily Business, 15th: Grand Master Powderly has written a letter to Jay Gould, to which the latter makes reply, and the correspondence is published in the morning papers. The Powderly letter is in bad taste. It is a threat from the first line to the last. It contains several vague and incoherent propositions which may be summarized as a sloppy challenge, and Mr. Gould was given until 5 o'clock p. m. yesterday to decide whether to fight or run away. As near as we can get at it the Grand Master is wrought up over the threatened prosecution of Knights of Labor for damage done to the property of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, and he proposes to retaliate by forcing Mr. Gould to turn himself inside out and explain with the minutest particularity the processes by which he has made his money.

Just how he is going about it the writer does not state, but "able counsel" have been retained to devise ways and means of accomplishing the end determined upon, and the resources of the 500,000 Knights are pledged to the success of the scheme whatever it may be. The "able counsel" who have been retained to storm Jay Gould's citadel, have dropped into a soft thing—a life "sit" as it were. If they and the 500,000 Knights can wrest from Gould the secrets of his operations they will astonish themselves and amaze the world.

Gould's methods are detestable, and it is not improbable that he acquired the bulk of his vast fortune by shady methods, but his American citizenship is unquestioned and he is entitled to the protection of the laws of the land the same as any other citizen. His answer to Powderly's verbose "defy" is spirited and manly. It places the commander of the Knights on the defensive and causes him to appear at a great disadvantage.

The published correspondence will do the Knights more harm than would the failure of a dozen great strikes. Clearly the order should dispense with its brass bands and literary departments, and muzzle its Powerlys and its Irons. If a letter-writing bureau is indispensable, it should be provided with a blue pencil and a managing editor.

DIED.

On April 19, at 1:45 a. m., at No. 1055 North Water street, of Bright's disease, MRS. ELIZA WALKER ODOR, aged 56 years, 4 months and 18 days.

The deceased was the widow of Thomas C. Odor, and had been ill for over a year.

THE President has reappointed Mrs. Virginia Thompson postmistress of Louisville, Ky., and the Kentucky Bourbons are much disgusted thereat.

IT now takes seven Pullman sleeping cars for each through train to accommodate the regular overland travel to California on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad.

MORRISON is reported as having no influence upon the President, the President no influence on Congress, and it is even whispered around that Congress is lacking in influence upon anybody. It seems to be a kind of set-off all along the line.

ACCORDING to a Kansas City paper of yesterday, plans are in progress for the purchase by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Company of the Wabash property, now in the hands of receivers, and to be sold on the 28th inst.

ONE per cent of the population of New York City belongs to the criminal or pauper classes, counting as paupers all who receive partial assistance from the charitable authorities. Judging by the style of Aldermen that are elected in that emporium one would suppose that these classes constituted the only legal voters at municipal elections.

SEVENTEEN of the New York Aldermen who were bribed to vote for the Broadway Surface Railroad ordinance have now been arrested, and are either in jail or out on heavy bail. Of the remainder of those who helped to pass the ordinance, three have fled and two are dead.

CLEVELAND Leader and Herald: The "boycott" has run mad when it is used against those who harbor or assist the representatives of a state government in preserving public peace. That is what it means to threaten hotels in East St. Louis with business ostracism for feeding militia acting under the orders of the Governor of the State of Illinois.

UNITED STATES SENATOR EUGENE HALE, of Maine, says: "It becomes more evident each day that the administration is utterly incompetent. It has done nothing but to bring down ridicule and expose the weakness of the Democratic party. A revulsion has taken place, and the Republican party was never stronger than now."

HENRY WARD BEECHER is reported to have said the other day: "The Democratic party is a double-eared ass. After being out for twenty-four years they got back in, and then they fall upon the man who helped them, and try to tear him to pieces for honestly believing what they all professed."

THE deficiency in the Ohio Treasury is about $1,000,000, which is due to the repeal by the Democrats of the Scott law, which taxed liquor-selling, and to Democratic mismanagement. Governor Foraker recommends the taxing of the liquor traffic, of gross receipts of foreign telephone, transportation, car-trust companies, etc., after the Vermont method.

A PIECE of wisdom that is timely and indisputable is uttered by a Michigan newspaper, which says: "Whenever the people have been able to rid themselves of rings of ballot-box stuffers, repeaters and election rascals generally, and secure fair, honest elections, the uniform result has been victory for the Republican party." That is a truth that weighs a ton to the square foot. An honest election, nine times out of ten, is a guaranteed Republican victory.

A WASHINGTON correspondent says that there is no truth in the story that the Democratic members of Congress have "boycotted" the Administration, and declares that "there is not a Democratic Senator or Representative who does not go often to the White House." That accounts for the President's getting mad so frequently, and is a good excuse for him.

"I WON'T do it, and you will confer a favor on me by bringing this tedious interview to a close," was the language of President Cleveland to a Democratic spoilsman who first demanded, then argued and then begged that an appointment which the President had declined to make should be taken under renewed consideration, for the purpose of eventually bringing it about. Notwithstanding the President sometimes fails as a reformer, he also sometimes practices reform so vigorously that it actually electrifies the public mind. This was such an instance.

INDIANAPOLIS Journal: Very little is known of the newly appointed Governor of Utah, Mr. West, of Kentucky, but it is reported that he has very moderate views on the Mormon question, and agrees with Secretary Lamar that the laws against polygamy ought not to be enforced too rigorously. This will be good news for the Mormons, but the selection of this type of man doesn't accord very well with the anti-polygamy rhetoric which Rose Elizabeth smuggled into her brother's message to Congress. The Mormons were probably right when they painted Salt Lake City red on the occasion of the Democratic success in the Presidential election.

CHICAGO Journal: The Democrats at Washington are re-enforcing their courage by estimates of a rosy complexion regarding the membership of the next House of Representatives, in which they claim that they will have a decided majority as at present. Such estimates are all out the way. Between the popular feeling among spoils Democrats against the President on the one hand and the feeling among the reform Democrats against the politicians in Congress on the other, it is exceedingly probable that the next House will have a Republican majority. Democratic estimates relating to a future election no more indicate what the result will be than you can tell by the affidavits published in a cheap newspaper what its circulation is.

A LITTLE of something was wanting to increase and render irrevocably permanent the Republican majority in Ohio, and the Morrison-Hewitt Free-trade bill has furnished it. Nine-tenths of the voters in Ohio are in favor of the tariff on wool. The sheep-growers favor it because it insures a better price for their wool, and everybody else favors it because the prosperity of this interest means the prosperity of every other industrial and commercial interest. By placing wool on the free list the free-trade combination have excluded themselves from fellowship, not only with Ohio people generally, but with Ohio Democrats.

THE Republican Legislature of New Jersey has also adopted resolutions of sympathy with and congratulation to Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Parnell, and the Republican Governor of Minnesota has sent a kindly greeting to both the distinguished leaders on the prospect of the speedy settlement of the Irish difficulty. Six Republican States—Iowa, Ohio, New York, Minnesota, New Jersey and Rhode Island—have thus pronounced in favor of Gladstone, Parnell and Ireland. Next!

THERE are 1,077,302 children of the school-going age in Illinois, of whom 738,787 attend the public schools and 78,164 attend private schools. There are 12,093 public schools in the State, employing 20,619 teachers.

KENTUCKIANS have usually been noted for their gallantry to the sex, and the would scarcely expected to see the entire Democratic party wearing trousers roll up its sleeves and make the streets of Louisville hideous while it denounced one little woman who has been reappointed postmistress. The secret seems to be that several parties who wear pants want it—and want it bad.

A REMARKABLE WOMAN.

LOUISE MICHEL, TEACHER, POET, AND REVOLUTIONIST.

Her Constancy of Purpose, Fearlessness, Generosity, Affectionate Disposition and Stoical Indifference to Physical Suffering.

[Special Correspondence.]

PARIS, April 3.—President Grévy has shown his satisfaction with his recent re-election for another term of seven years by pardoning a number of political prisoners. Among them is the famous Louise Michel. I well remember the day she was arrested. It was in March, 1883. A workingmen's meeting was held, or rather an attempt was made to hold one, on the Esplanade des Invalides. But the police dispersed the gathering, disorder followed and the windows of some bakeries were broken and bread stolen. Louise Michel was the instigator of the meeting and was found in one of the bands that had forced its way into a bakery. In the following June she was sentenced as a thief to six years of prison, although no proof was produced that she had taken any bread or even that she had urged others to do so. Before an American jury she would probably have been acquitted, or at least would have received only a slight punishment for disturbing the peace. But at that moment there was great suffering and discontent among the working classes of Paris. The government feared that the good name of the republic might be jeopardized. Public opinion called for an example, and Louise Michel was sacrificed while the fair name of French justice was tarnished by an ineffaceable blot.

Louise Michel began life as a teacher in the public schools. At that time she was a fervent Catholic, and was the author of many religious poems pervaded by a spirit of deep tenderness and nobility of character. The Paris commune of 1871 and the sufferings of the poor won all her sympathies. She threw aside her school books and prayer books and thenceforth devoted herself entirely to the cause of the proletariat. I have talked with Louis Michel in her humble home, I have heard her speak at public meetings, have followed her acts during her stormy career. While I do not share her wild enthusiasm, nor applaud her violent measures for the regeneration of society, I cannot help admiring her constancy of purpose, her fearlessness, her generosity and her affectionate disposition. A few anecdotes will illustrate these noble qualities of mind and heart.

A short time before her imprisonment she was invited to lecture at Versailles. A lot of rowdies broke up the meeting and Louise Michel was forced to go alone from the hall to the railroad station followed by a jeering mob. She did not show the least fear on this occasion, but looked the threatening crowd calmly in the face, remarking, in a gentle tone: "I forgive them; they don't know what they are doing. When our side gets into power these people who are now insulting me will be the first to applaud me. I care nothing for these adults; my aim is to convert children to my view. I address myself to the future. The present is rotten."

During the sufferings caused by the siege of Paris in the autumn of 1870, Victor Hugo was in the habit of giving money to a lady friend, who distributed it among the poor. One day she came to the poet and said that a certain woman whom she knew was in the greatest distress. Victor Hugo handed over 100 francs. But he was astonished the next day to learn that this woman was still in need of relief. "But what have you done with the 100 francs of yesterday?" he asked. "Oh, she gave them to the starving mothers with children," answered the almoner. "Well, here is another 100," continued Victor Hugo: "but I give them to you on the express understanding that your friend keeps them for herself." The lady hurried away with the money. "This is for you alone," she said as she placed the louis d'ors in the poor woman's lap. "Is that the condition on which they are given me?" asked the recipient. "Yes," was the reply. "Then you may take them back again," continued the former: "thank Victor Hugo for me and tell him I appreciate his good intentions." "Oh, no," answered the lady, somewhat embarrassed; "I will assume the responsibility then of letting you do what you like with the money. But I must say that you are very obstinate about it." This obstinate starver was Louise Michel.

I pass over in silence that terrible period in her life, embracing the fall of the Commune, her arrest, transportation to New Caledonia and her return. Suffice it to say that throughout those hard years, which nearly destroyed her physical beauty and which unquestionably affected her brain, Louise Michel displayed all those elevated qualities that have characterized her Paris existence during the past five or six years. Let us follow her to her cell. After the death, a year ago, of her mother, whom she loved so tenderly, and the separation from whom was the only bitter feature of her imprisonment, Louise Michel became an inmate of the woman's prison of Saint Lazare, situated in the heart of the city.

The only solace of these long days of confinement was her pen. She has written, during the last ten years, several books that will soon be printed. She also won the esteem of the officers of the prison and the affection of her unhappy fellow sufferers. Whenever kind friends—and she had many, some of whom have a world-wide reputation—sent her delicacies, they were immediately distributed among the other occupants of Saint Lazare. She was especially attentive to the little children, who, up to the age of three years, are allowed to remain with their unfortunate mothers. Nor does Louise Michel's tenderness toward living creatures stop with humanity. She has always had a great fondness for cats, and had several in her cell. But the kindly powers of her nature were best shown by the success that crowned her efforts to bring into friendly relations her own cats and the obtruding prison rats. It was a curious sight to see these timid little animals eating crumbs of bread on Louise Michel's table while the cats purred quietly in her lap.

Louise Michel is a pronounced free thinker, but that does not keep the prison chaplain, Abbe Duble, from speaking well of her. "She is very generous," he said some time before her liberation; "more than once she has shared her meals with her sisters in misery." She is jealously regardless of her own interest. For instance, she twice refused offers of money from thoughtful friends outside of the prison walls. She would not be an object of charity.

Her stoical indifference to physical punishment had become a cause of real embarrassment to the government. Many a Frenchman, be it said to their honor, blushed for the good name of the Republic when Louise Michel was thrown into jail, and the Radical element of the Republican party has never ceased to demand her restoration to liberty. But the victim always treated her persecutors with such scorn that they hesitated to approach her. Several months ago, when the ministry were actually on the point of opening her door, Louise Michel sent them such a bold letter that their dignity checked their clemency. Her position, which was a strong one, was this: I am unjustly imprisoned and cannot accept a "pardon," and, furthermore, the state prisons contain others confined for political reasons, and for what I consider insufficient reasons; there must be a general jail delivery of this class of convicts, or I must refuse to quit my cell. No exceptions must be made, and there must be nothing said about pardoning us. So when the officers came the other day and informed Louise Michel that the president had pardoned her and a half-dozen other Socialists, she absolutely refused to leave Saint Lazare, and sat down and wrote letters to this effect to both M. Grévy and the chief of police. The government was on the point of cutting a ridiculous figure. There was but one avenue of escape. The private secretary of the chief of police hurried to the prison and informed the Tartar that unless she departed immediately, and of her own accord, she would be put out by main force. And thus ended this discreditable affair, in so far as the government is concerned.

As soon as she was at liberty Louise Michel penned a half-dozen letters to as many different newspapers, expressing her dissatisfaction at M. Grévy's clemency, and in conversation she blames severely those of her friends, and especially Henri Rochefort, who, by pressing her release, have brought about this "infamy that she is the victim of." She has spoken in public several times during the past week and is in such an irate state of mind that she announces her departure from France. "This country is dead," she exclaimed the other night: "I don't wish to stay here any longer. I mean to go where open war is declared against the Socialists, to the dominion of the all-powerful czar, to the land where the revolutionists fight."

It is highly probable, therefore, that the world has not yet heard the last of Louise Michel. Her past sufferings and actions have given her a great notoriety. If she remain in Paris, she is sure to come to the front at the outbreak of any disorder, and to act an important part. If she go to Russia, she will not only prove a source of grave trouble to the imperial government, but she may cause international difficulties that, if they do not produce serious consequences in the foreign affairs of France, may precipitate a crisis at home, where the political situation is like tinder awaiting the spark.

UNDER THE SHEARS.

The Hair Cutter at a Fashionable Hair Dresser's.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—The cutting of women's hair is a great industry in this city. All the feminine world wears bangs, and bangs must be cut once a month or every six weeks. None but an expert can cut them, either. The woman who cuts her own bangs is as far behind the style as the boy whose mother cuts his hair. At the hair cutting establishments which have the name of leading the fashions a chance to be sheared is something to be grateful for. The fair applicants enter continually, pay their half dollar, secure their ticket and sit down to wait in the presence of the victim already in the cutter's hands.

One of the great hair dressing houses has a German cutter, who looks as though he knew nothing, but when it comes to hair he knows all things. He is elderly and bald; but, strange to say, not the least garrulous. Silence is literally golden to him. He has no time to talk, cutting and dressing the hair of thirty subjects daily, day after day. His shears fairly fly over the fair damsels' heads, and he manipulates the curling tongs with a skill and dexterity absolutely dazzling.

Just now the fashionable cut is in three layers, like three rows of shingles, which is curled, then combed upward directly in the middle and brought down a little on each side. The whole effect is fluffy, almost to the point of being bristling. Then, for thin necked women, the hair is cut short at the back of the neck, curled and separated, to "fill in" back of the ears. This style is only adapted to women with small heads and slender necks. But being the fashion, women with necks like prize pumpkins will insist upon it, with a result too astonishing to be described.

The old German not only cuts hair with a skill that approximates inspiration, but he dresses it exquisitely. His hands are like big, stubby cushions, but he twists and brushes and pins and adjusts till every head he manipulates looks as modish as a wax fixture. Curiously enough, they all seem to absorb a little of his nationality by passing through his hands. Every soul of them has, in spite of the fashionable coiffure, become a little bit of a Dutch woman. Twisting and coil-making are mere play for the old man, but tying a ribbon bow bothers him, and when he has tied it, it lacks the quality we call ease.

He thinks things, if he is silent. He does his best to discharge every expression from his face, but a close observer can read between the lines. He knows things well worth saying about the heads that he manipulates—what has streaked the hair, or killed it, or broken it off. The ladies, conscious of guilt in the matter of dyes and bleaches, do their best sometimes to throw him off the track; but they can't. He shuts his eyes up tighter, closes his mouth firmer, and nothing replies. What is it to him what they do with their heads, anyway? Scarcely one woman out of thirty has healthful, beautiful hair. Girls of 13 are gray often, their hair dead or dying, stubby and broken. The general decay of hair has given rise to hosts of "hair doctors" and "scalp surgeons," men and women, many of them the most ignorant quacks, who drive a lively business on the declining capillary charms of women.

THE Rev. Henry Ward Beecher was given an informal reception last Monday forenoon by Dr. and Mrs. N. A. Hyde, at their residence in Indianapolis, on the occasion of the meeting of the Indianapolis Ministerial Association. Mr. Beecher made some remarks in which he recalled some of his Indiana experiences, among them the following: "The baptisms in the old time were interesting to the people. Sometimes the ministers united for a public immersion. On one of these occasions I had a big carpenter on hand. He was nearly seven feet tall. We walked into the water together, and when I was in nearly to my shoulders my friend was hardly wetting his knees. I turned to him and suggested that either this thing would have to stop or I should have to swim. Being a carpenter he said he would double up like a rule. When he was on his knees I got on very well."

ONE MAN'S GREAT WORK.

BISHOP WHIPPLE ON THE ROMANCE OF HIS LIFE.

One of the Most Remarkable Divines in America—Quarter of a Century Among the Indians—The Great Institutions of Learning That He Founded.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO, April 13.—A few days ago I made a flying visit to Faribault, Minn., and while there saw and learned something of the history of one of the most remarkable men in America—Rev. H. B. Whipple, D. D., Episcopal bishop of Minnesota. This high office he has held for twenty-seven years. Bishop Whipple is recognized from one end of the country to the other in ecclesiastical circles as a man of more than ordinary distinction. The story of his life reads like a romance and there is, in fact, in the recital, all of the elements that go to make up a romance. In the time that he has been bishop he has preached 7,000 sermons, confirmed 1,000 people, baptised 800 infants and 300 adults, celebrated the holy communion 1,120 times, buried 80 persons, performed almost 100 marriages, ordained 90 deacons and 70 priests. Stop a second and think what these figures mean!

In personal appearance this remarkable man is a magnificent specimen of well preserved manhood. He is over six feet tall, as straight as an arrow, with features boldly cut and finely finished.

His life work has been largely among the Indians, and he has probably labored longer, harder, and been more intimately associated with the red men than any other man now living. When he went to Minnesota there were no railways. His faithful horse carried him 3,000 miles every year, visiting the missions and churches in his diocese. This same horse he computes carried him 40,000 miles in his missionary work. In 1859 there were 20,000 Indians in Minnesota. The bishop knew and was known to many of them. It is said that many whom he first met as painted savages are now civilized Christian men, some of them leading citizens of the state.

During the great Indian massacre of 1862 he had many harrowing experiences, and his efforts had a great deal to do with quieting the savages.

Bishop Whipple is the founder of the institutions of learning in Faribault, which long ago made the far northern place famous. First, there is Seabury Divinity school, which is designed to prepare young men for the ministry. The accompanying picture represents a graduate of the school. It is one of the leading institutions of the kind in the country, and the clerical dressed students, who are seen around the town, present a decidedly English college appearance. Then there is Shattuck military school, where boys are prepared for college and are drilled like so many soldiers.

The following picture represents a Shattuck cadet. The cadets wear a uniform of gray, and are said to hail from all parts of the United States. Another great school fostered by this busy bishop is St. Mary's college, where young ladies are given a finished education. The pupils, one of whom is here pictured, of this institution are playfully called the Mollies. Many young Indians have graduated from these institutions. I give a sketch of a young Indian divinity student, whose history is quite as romantic as the bishop's. He is a half-breed Sioux, and was picked up on a battlefield after a sharp fight with the Indians, by Capt. Cook, of the regular army.

The poor boy was 12 years old when found. He was placed at the Shattuck school, and later attended an eastern school, where he graduated. He expressed a desire to become a minister, so that he could go back and work among his own people. He was duly ordained last June, and is now doing good work in the wilds of Nebraska. He is courtly and handsome, has elegant manners, is an accomplished tennis player, has a fine bass voice, and is very popular with the ladies. Poor fellow, he inherited consumption from some of his ancestors, and it is feared he cannot live much longer.

The story of the origin of these great schools is best told in the words of the bishop, in his annual address:

ST. MARY'S HALL.

"I laid the corner stone of the original Seabury hall July 17, 1862. It was the first building erected in the United States for a bishop's church. The first day Breck, Wilcoxson and Merrick stood on Minnesota soil they celebrated the holy communion under an oak tree, on the bluffs back of La Crescent. Since that day this blessed feast has been celebrated on every Lord's Day in Minnesota.

"The day I laid this corner stone, I recall the incredulous looks of some who heard me, as I told them that the time would come when these bluffs would be crowned with Christian schools, and the name of Faribault be a household word throughout the church.

Those were troublous times. The country was desolated by civil war. We had hardly commenced this work before Minnesota was visited by an awful Indian massacre, in which 800 citizens perished. In one week our Indian missions were destroyed and the work of years was blasted.

"In the fall of 1863 Seabury hall was finished. The divinity school and its preparatory department were in this building. In 1865 we organized Shattuck school. It was named after the kind friend who gave us the means to begin the work, Dr. George C. Shattuck, of Boston, Mass. The Shattuck hall was erected in 1868. In 1866 I opened a girls' school in my own house. This was the beginning of St. Mary's hall. In 1872 the old Seabury hall was burned down. A few years later the present magnificent buildings were erected. In connection with these places of learning there is a beautiful Episcopal church known as Shumway Memorial chapel, represented in the preceding picture.

It was erected by a Christian lady to commemorate the life and death of her lovely young daughter. These sketches of Faribault's great institutions of learning and the man who planned them all have been gotten together hurriedly and without any regard to system, but they certainly present the novelty of freshness, as the great papers of the country, news and pictorial, have overlooked the subject matter entirely.

THE GREAT CYCLONE.

Particulars of the Awful Visitor in the Northwest Tuesday Afternoon.

Dreadful Destruction of Life and All Kinds of Property Along the Track of the Storm.

Bad as the Early News Was, Each Succeeding Report Presents the Matter in a More Deplorable Light.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 15.—A tornado struck St. Cloud, Minn., at half-past four yesterday afternoon. It came from a southwesterly direction, passed through the town and went almost due north, striking Sauk Rapids, three miles away, a few seconds later. The first news of the tornado was received at the general office of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba railroad just before five o'clock. The message said that the company's freight depot had been swept away and every car in the company's yard blown over and carried several blocks. A second message was received a few minutes later saying that sixty or seventy buildings had been demolished. Later the following message was received.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., April 14.

TO MAYOR AMES, MINNEAPOLIS: A disastrous cyclone passed over St. Cloud and Sauk Rapids late this afternoon. There has been terrible destruction here. Please send up all the assistance you can by special train. Send physicians and surgeons.

Telegrams to the following effect were received from Sauk rapids:

TO MAYOR AMES: Can you send a special train with physicians to this city? A cyclone passed over the city this afternoon. A great many are believed to be killed, but the number is not yet known.

[Signed] SAUK RAPIDS.

In response, the railroad company sent a special train with thirteen physicians aboard in charge of Dr. A. Bancker, city and county physician. As to the loss of life, nothing definite can be learned. One report says that fifty or sixty persons have been killed and wounded, while another report puts the dead at twenty and wounded at seventy.

A message received at the division headquarters of the Manitoba road says the train dispatcher at St. Cloud counted thirty-six dead bodies already taken out of the ruins. This may be an exaggeration, but nothing definite can be learned as to the number of the killed and wounded until the debris is cleared away, and the bodies taken out. Certain it is, however, that the loss of life is great. It is believed that at least forty persons have been killed and wounded. The disaster is certainly appalling.

Private advices say the storm struck the railroad between the round-house and the freight depot, and swept a path 600 yards wide through the city, leveling between 150 and 200 houses.

Mr. H. Clark, a well-known lumberman living in St. Cloud says ninety persons were killed in that city, and more than a hundred injured, many very seriously. Superintendent Wakeman, of the Manitoba road, says between thirty and forty persons were killed at Sauk Rapids, and nearly double that number injured. The telegraph wires northwest of this city are all down, and no news direct from either St. Cloud or Sauk Rapids has been received or obtainable since seven o'clock.

St. Cloud is the county seat of Stearns County. It is west of the Mississippi, several miles back from the river, and seventy-five miles north of St. Paul. It has a population of 4,360.

Sauk Rapids is three miles above, on the opposite side of the river in Benton County.

The latest reports received at 10 p. m. give the number killed in St. Cloud as fifteen, and injured at twenty-five, and at Sauk Rapids fifteen killed and twenty injured.

WORSE THAN FIRST REPORTED.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 15.—Latest reports from the path of the cyclone indicate that the destruction of life and property has been even greater than at first reported. The storm was the most terrific ever experienced. From the point of starting, about one mile southwest of St. Cloud, to a point some distance beyond Sauk Rapids, a distance of fifteen miles, it destroyed everything it touched, tearing and rending the stoutest materials. Its path, so far as it has been examined, is from 300 to 1,000 feet wide. From this every building, fence, tree and shrub has been swept away. In places the ground is torn up as if by an explosion, and in the yards of the Manitoba railroad at St. Cloud even the rails were twisted from the ties and bent into useless shapes.

LATER.

Each report from the terrible scenes of the cyclone at St. Cloud and Sauk Rapids increases the total of deaths, injured by the disaster. Up to this writing forty-six deaths have been reported and the number will be increased to at least seventy-five. The storm last night greatly interfered with the work of the rescuers and added greatly to the sufferings of the injured. Twenty-two are reported dead at Rices' Station, Minn.

At St. Cloud the loss to the Northern Pacific & Manitoba railroad is $50,000, and to dwellings $5,000. At St. Cloud the storm seemed to have been almost local in origin, and to have gathered and spent its force within a space of less than thirty miles in length and twenty rods in width. It started less than two miles south of St. Cloud. About 3:50 p. m., a number of dark and ominous clouds gathered in the southwest, and a short distance beyond the city began to take the terrible appearance of a cyclone. A long and exceedingly black and funnel-shaped cloud seemed to be let down from the heavens. Some people who were hunting in the immediate vicinity of the fierce storm beginning say that a stratum of hot and motionless air seemed to settle on them for a moment with a stifling effect and they fled onward as the fierce demon of the storm rode down upon the wings of the wind.

The weakest part of the tornado was felt in St. Cloud. The storm seems to have barely gathered force when it fell upon this city.

A Similar Disaster in Iowa.

OMAHA, Neb., April 15.—A special to the Bee, from Panama, Ia., says:

A cyclone yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, struck the town of Coon Rapids and completely demolished most of the place. One boy was killed and numerous persons were injured. Twenty-five houses, two churches, one school-house and several business houses were destroyed. A freight train, except the locomotive, was blown from the track and demolished and the contents ruined. The cyclone swep over Western Iowa, doing considerable damage. It is supposed the cyclone started about three miles east of Griswold, and then passed north and slightly east, then going about nine miles southeast to Atlantic, passed two and a half miles east of Brayton. The cyclone had the appearance of a funnel-shaped cloud. Southeast of Atlantic, about four miles, Henry Rogers' house was blown away, and his hired man was badly injured. Jno. Kirk's big stable, 300 feet long, was destroyed, together with his horses.

In Benton township ten houses were totally destroyed and one woman fatally injured. Near Brayton the dwellings of Jos. Reynolds and William and Donald Brittner were destroyed and also the Brittner school-house. The pupils escaped, however, by running with the family into Brittner's cave or cyclone cellar, they having seen the cloud coming. Mr. Northgraves, in that vicinity, was dangerously hurt. Much stock has been killed. Reports from the cyclone are very meager so far, but it is believed that great damage has been done and many lives lost.

More Bodies Being Recovered Hourly.

BIG LAKE, Minn., April 15.—Drs. Higbee and Dalliver, of Minneapolis, who arrived from St. Cloud this afternoon, told a reporter that more bodies were being recovered hourly from the debris, and were being brought in from the country on the track of the tornado. Twelve injured people were brought in, several of whom will die.

Druggist Seubert's remains had just been found. He had only been in the city two weeks. Four have died of wounds since morning.

At a church east of Rice's Station, thirteen instead of ten of a wedding party were killed, including the officiating minister.

At Sauk Rapids, thirty-one are already dead. The list will be swelled to forty.

Dr. Ames, of Minneapolis, who is on duty at St. Cloud, told Dr. Dalliner that at least thirty deaths can but result from the visitation there.

Drs. Denslow and Ritchie, shortly after midnight, went across from St. Cloud to Sauk Rapids to render what assistance they could there; twenty-three dead bodies had been found, and the doctors from Minneapolis were busy caring for the wounded. The first one they saw was E. G. Halbert, formerly a State Senator in the New York Legislature, but now Northwestern agent of the New York Life Insurance Company for Minnesota and Dakota. He was receiving every attention possible. It is thought his skull is fractured at the base, and both arms and one leg are broken. He is desperately injured. The chances are all against his recovery.

Every house left standing in the place was used as a temporary hospital for the injured. Many people are missing, and it is believed their bodies will be found far distant from their former homes.

Indescribable Fury of the Tornado.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 16.—A special from Sauk Rapids says that the fury of the tornado there was indescribable. Heavy building were lifted from their foundation-stones like toys and dashed in fragments to the earth. A long string of laden freight cars on the Manitoba road in St. Cloud were lifted from the track and ruined. Nothing that felt the breath of the cyclone survived to tell of the experience. Horses and cattle were lifted by its mighty force high into the air and dragged a mile or more away, and men, women and children were ruthlessly picked up and dashed to death by its cruel power.

Beyond Sauk Rapids the news of the disaster comes in slowly. Thus much has been gathered from a farmer who drove into town to bring the woeful tidings. After destroying much timber and much stock, but doing little damage to life or limb, it selected a lonely house near Rice's Station, and here wreaked its utmost fury.

The whole city of Sauk Rapids was laid in ruins. Only one store was left standing, and one side of that was stove in. The principal thoroughfare, Broad street, presents a scene of utter desolation, as though mown by the scythe of the destroyer.

Many saw the cyclone coming from the direction of St. Cloud and fled for safety to their cellars.

SCRANTON, Pa., April 15.—The following manifesto was written by General Master Workman Powderly on the 11th inst:

SCRANTON, Pa., April 11 1886. 2 o'clock A. M.

To Jay Gould, Esq., President Missouri Pacific Railroad, New York

DEAR SIR—The events of the past forty eight hours must have demonstrated to you the absolute necessity of bringing this terrible struggle in the Southwest to a speedy termination. You have the power, the authority and the means to bring this strike to an end. I have done everything in my power to end the strike. The gentlemen associated with me on the general executive board of the Knights of Labor have done the same. Everything consistent with honor and manhood has been done in the interest of peace. No false notion of pride or dignity has swayed us in our dealings with you or the gentlemen associated with you. In that conference with you on Sunday, March 28, I understood you to mean that arbitration would be agreed to. The only method of arbitration that was discussed was in line with that suggested in the letter which I sent to you in the name of our board the day previous. There was nothing particularly agreed upon, as you well know. You said that in arbitrating the matter the damages sustained by the company during the strike ought to receive consideration. I said to you that it would not be the part of wisdom to bring the question up at the settlement of the strike. When I called on you again that evening you had prepared as the result of your understanding of the morning interview a letter which you intended to give me. That letter included a telegram to be sent to Mr Hoxie, and in that telegram you said that the damages sustained by the company would be a proper subject for the arbitration board to discuss. This latter part of the letter or telegram you agreed to strike off. After we had talked the matter over for some time, I left you as you were about to go to your room to rewrite the letter which you afterward placed in the hands of Mr. McDowell to be given to me, for I had to leave at that time in order to keep an appointment at the hotel where I stopped. The statement which you have since then made to the effect that you had prepared that letter before I called, is not quite correct, or if you did have it prepared, you changed it after we had talked the matter over for some time. This, I believe, you will admit to be true. In the conference held between the members of our executive board and the directors of the Missouri Pacific Company at 195 Broadway on March 30, you said to me that you understood me to say that the men along your lines would be ordered back to work at once. They having violated the rules of our organization, I then reiterated the statement which I made to you and I now repeat it: "The men out along the lines of your railways can be ordered back to work, but if they are given to understand that they are deserted, that we do not take interest in them, it will not in any way mend matters. On the contrary, it will make things worse. There are all along the roads out there a great many men who have no regard for organization or law, men of hardy spirit, energy and daring. Such men have left the East and have taken up their homes out in a wild country, such as that is. They will not submit as quietly as the men they have left behind in the East. They are apt to do rasher things than they would do elsewhere, and I have no doubt we have some of them in our order; in fact, my experience with the men of that vast section leads me to think that the men on both sides out there are more daredevilish than they are in the East. Even the business men of that country are of that stamp of character."

Both you and Mr Hopkins heard me make that statement, and I believe the latter agreed that that was his experience. The danger of the strike spreading was also discussed, and I said to you that it would not spread; that an effort had been made to have the men of the Union Pacific a part in it, but the Knights of Labor on that road had a standing agreement with the management of the road that there was to be no trouble or strike until the last resort to settle had failed, and not then until the court of last resort had been reached. When I made that statement Mr. Hopkins remarked that they had better strike then, for if they did not the Union Pacific would not much longer have sufficient money to pay their employes. The impression made on me was that you would be pleased to see a strike take place on the Union Pacific. This, I believe, covers the chief points of discussion.

I did not hear either you or Mr. Hopkins say that the present trouble out along your roads would not be arbitrated with the men who were not at work. It was my firm belief, when I left you that night, that you meant to have the entire affair submitted to arbitration at the first possible moment. That belief is shared in by Mr. McDowell, who was present during the entire interview. When you sent the telegram to Mr. Hoxie you sent it as president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company. You sent it as the chief sends his message to an inferior officer, and it meant as much to a sensible man as the most imperative order could possibly mean. When I, as the chief officer of the Knights of Labor, send a message such as that, it is understood to be my wishes, and those wishes are respected by the subordinate officer to whom they are sent. It is not his place to put a different construction on them and give them his own interpretation. His duty is to obey the spirit of the instructions. The man in power need not be an autocrat in order to have his wishes respected. "I would like to see it done" comes with as great a force from the man in authority as "I must have it done."

That was the idea that I entertained when I left your house that night. I also explained to you at your house that night that the men who had entered upon the strike had not violated any law of the order in so doing; so that, while I thought it would have been better if they had laid their grievances before the general executive board before striking, yet there was nothing in our laws to command them to do so. I said that a district assembly of the Knights of Labor bore the same relation to the general assembly, of which I am the chief officer, that one of the States of the American Union bore to the general government of the United States, and that while I could interfere it was under the law which gave me jurisdiction over the entire order, and not under any particular law. I furthermore explained to you that the spirit of our organization and its genius was opposed to strikes, and that was the reason why our general convention never enacted any particular legislation for the government of them. I also said that the occasion had never before called for any reference from the general officers, but that this strike would show the necessity for the passage at our next convention of laws that would place the subject of strikes under the control of the general executive board of the general order.

When, on Monday, March 29, you sent me the letter marked "personal" you at the same time told a newspaper correspondent that you had done so. What your motive was in marking your letters "personal" and at the same time informing a representative of the press that you had addressed me, I do not know, nor do I question your motive. I felt it to be my duty to let the public see the letter, which contained nothing of a personal nature whatever. There are people who might be uncharitable enough to say your intention was to give out the impression that there was something between you and me which would not bear the light of public scrutiny. I have had no such dealings with any man since this trouble began, nor previous to that time. I am quite willing to allow the fullest light possible to shine upon my every transaction. I have nothing to conceal.

You can settle this strike. Its longer continuance rests with you. And you alone. Every action of violence, every drop of blood that may be shed from this time, must be laid at your door.

The Knights of Labor were not founded to promote or shield wrong doing, and to-day the order of the Knights of Labor stand between your property and ruin.

We are willing to absolve the men along your railway from their allegiance to our order. We leave that to themselves. We will not allow any claims which the order may have on them to stand between them and their restoration to their former positions. The order of the Knights of Labor asks of no man to remain a member if it is not to his interest to do so. You may deal with them as citizens if you will. We will surrender our right to claim these men as members, if they wish; but we will not surrender our right to see this affair thoroughly investigated.

You have said that the order of the Knights of Labor was a conspiracy, a secret menace, etc. I am willing, as the chief officer, to lay everything connected with our order bare to the world. If you will, on the other hand lay open to the public the means and methods whereby you have piled up the wealth which you control, and the tribunal of public opinion to pass judgment on the two and say which is the conspiracy. Do you accept the challenge?

You have instructed your legal advisers to proceed against every man connected with the Knights of Labor for damage sustained since the strike began. Two weeks ago I said "Do not do this!" To-day, I say begin at once, lay claims for damages in every court within whose jurisdiction a Knight exists: proceed at once, and in every State. Where you can recover damages, do so, if the law will sustain you in it. It is just and right that it should be. We are willing to face you before the law. We will fight you with no other weapons. For every violation of the law of State or Nation we will enter suit against you, and in this crusade against you do not understand that we are to persecute, on the contrary, we wish to see the law vindicated. If you have at all times obeyed the law in your dealings, in the methods by which you have acquired your immense fortune, then it is time that the many offenses with which you are charged should be refuted. You have remained silent under many a damaging charge of injuring the State. We will be your avengers. If you have been wronged we will let it be known to the world through the means of the courts of justice. And let me say right here that no money will buy a verdict at the hands of these courts.

There are people who say that this struggle is the beginning of the war between capital and labor. That statement is false. This certainly means war but it is a war between legitimate capital, honest enterprise and honest labor on the one hand and illegitimate wealth on the other hand. This is a war in which we court the fullest investigation of our acts. Do you dare to do the same? This war means no further strike, no shedding of blood; it is a war in which every business man, every commercial man, every professional man, every workingman will be invited to enlist. It will not be a war upon the innocent, and the battlefield upon which it will be fought out will be before the courts of law, and that which makes law, public opinion. There will be no mobs in this supreme hour to silence any man's opinion. No converts will be made by physical force. That flag which floats over press or mansion at the bidding of a mob disgraces both victor and victim, and under such a flag as this we do not wage the battle. But this battle of the people against monopoly may as well be fought now as ten years from now, and what field so eminently proper in which to fight it out as before the courts? Let us know whether laws were made to be obeyed or not; and if they were not so framed, then the people must make laws that will be obeyed. No man, whether he be rich or whether he be the poorest of the poor, shall in future shirk the responsibility of his acts and shield himself behind the courts.

It was to see that the laws were obeyed that the order of the Knights of Labor was founded, and if the day has come to make the trial, so let it be.

I do not write this letter to you either in the spirit of anger or of revenge. For you personally I have no dislike. I believe that if allowed to follow your impulses in this matter you would have had the strike ended ere this. Those who advise you do not mingle with the people. They do not care for the people. You have been warned that your life is in danger. Pay no attention to such talk. No man who has the interest of his country at heart would harm a hair of your head. But the system which reaches out on all sides, gathering in the millions of dollars of treasure and keeping them out of the legitimate channels of trade and commerce must die, and the men whose money is invested in the enterprises which stock-gambling has throttled must make common cause with those who have been denied the right to earn enough to provide the merest necessaries of life for home and family.

When I say to you that we will meet you in the courts, I do not speak rashly or ill-advisedly. I have taken counsel from the best legal minds of the United States. We are prepared to face you before the courts, and now await your action in the matter. This is not a threat. I play no game of bluff or chance. I speak for five hundred thousand organized men, who are ready to pay out the last farthing in order that justice may prevail.

You have it in your power to make friends of these men by acting the part of the man—by taking this matter in your own hands. Will you do so and end this strife in the interest of humanity and our common country? It is your duty to brush aside every obstacle, assert your authority and take this matter in your own hands. Settle every grievance, restore every man to his place, except those who have been engaged in the destruction of property, or who have broken the laws. Will you do this? You can then make rules and agreements with your men which will forever preclude the possibility of another such disastrous conflict as this one has proved itself to be. I remain very truly yours,

JAY GOULD'S REPLY.

The following is Jay Gould's reply to Mr. Powderly:

NEW YORK, April 14, 1886.

T. V. Powderly, Esq., G. M. W. K. of L.:

DEAR SIR—At twelve o'clock to-day I received from Mr. Wm. H. McDowell, whom you brought with you to our recent conferences, a letter in which he says: "By yesterday's mail I received a letter written by Mr. Powderly addressed to you inclosed in a letter addressed to me. With this I hand you the letter addressed to you by Mr. Powderly, and a copy of Mr. Powderly's letter to me inclosing the same." The following is a copy of the letter Mr. McDowell sent me as coming from you:

GENERAL ASSEMBLY, ORDER OF KNIGHTS OF LABOR OF AMERICA,
OFFICE OF GENERAL MASTER WORKMAN,
SCRANTON, Pa., April 13, 1886.

MY DEAR MR. MCDOWELL: I inclose you a letter which you are to read and deliver to the man for whom it is intended. I do not care whether you deliver it in person or through the medium of another, only ask that it be placed in his hands. If you have succeeded in effecting a settlement with him do not give it to him. If you think there is a prospect of an immediate settlement do not give it to him. But if such is not the case I want it placed in his hands. Allow him either to consent or make a reply. If he consents to an honorable settlement, then the letter will never see the light of day, but if he does not so act, then it will be published to the world and from the time he opens up the ball in a legal way we will continue to wage the battle with him. His wealth can not save him if this fight is begun. Let no one know of the existence of this letter till after five o'clock of the day you deliver it. Then, if he makes no reply, let it go to the world. Let him know the limit of the time allowed. I sincerely hope that there will be no more necessity for its publicity. Hoping for the best, I remain, very truly yours,

T. V. POWDERLY.

To W. O. McDowell, Esq., New York.

"I thus received your letter to me dated "Scranton, Pa., April 11, 1886," at the same time and by the same agency that I received your foregoing letter of instructions to Mr. McDowell. The animus and purpose of your letter to me cannot be fully understood without knowing the contents of that one. I was peremptorily notified at the same time that I must answer your letter by five o'clock to-day, and was graciously given until that hour to respond.

Your letter to me embraces two subjects, one relating to me personally and the other to the relation of the Knights of Labor to a railroad company of which I am the president, and, in some degree, the representative of its public and private duties. I shall refer to the first subject very briefly. The circumstances above given, under which your letter was delivered, as well as its tenor and spirit, place the purpose in writing it beyond any fair doubt. It would seem to be an official declaration that the Knights of Labor had determined to pursue me personally unless the Missouri Pacific Company should yield to its demands in what you call the strike on that road. In answer to these persons' threats I beg to say that I am yet a free American citizen. I am past forty-nine years of age, and was born at Roxbury, Delaware County, in this State. I began life in a lowly way, and by industry, temperance and attention to my own business, have been successful, perhaps beyond the measure of my deserts. If, as you say, I am now to be destroyed by the Knights of Labor, unless I will sink my manhood, so be it. Fortunately, I have retained my early habits of industry. My friends, neighbors and business associates, know me well, and I am quite content to leave my personal record in their hands. If any of them have aught to complain of, I will be only too glad to submit to any arbitration. If such parties, any of them wish to appoint the Knights of Labor or you as their attorney, such appointment is quite agreeable to me, but until such an election is made it will naturally occur to you that any interference on your part in my personal affairs is, to say the least, quite gratuitous. Since I was nineteen years of age I have been in the habit of employing in my various enterprises large numbers of persons, probably at times as high as fifty thousand, distributing often three or four million dollars per month to different pay rolls. It would seem a little strange that during all these years the difficulty with the Knights of Labor should be my first. Any attempt to connect me personally with the late strike on the Southwestern roads, or any responsibility therefor, is equally gratuitous, as you well know. It is true I am the president of the Missouri Pacific, but when this strike occurred I was far away on the ocean, and beyond the reach of telegrams. I went away relying on your promise made to me last August that there should be no strike on that road, and that if any difficulties should arise you would come frankly to me with them. Mr Hopkins, the Vice-President of this company, who was present and cognizant of this arrangement with you, in my absence sent you promptly when the present strike broke out the following telegrams:

NEW YORK, March 6, 1886.

TO T. V. POWDERLY, SCRANTON, PA.: Mr. Hoxie telegraphs that the Knights of Labor on our road have struck and refuse to allow any freight trains to run, saying that they have no grievances, but are only striking because ordered to do so. If there are any grievances we would like to talk it over with you. We understood you to promise that no strikes would be ordered without consultation.

[Signed] A. L. HOPKINS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 9, 1886.

TO A. L. HOPKINS, SECRETARY MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD, NEW YORK: Have telegraphed West for particulars. Papers say strike caused by discharge of man named Hall. Can he be reinstated pending investigation.

[Signed] T. V. POWDERLY.

NEW YORK, March 9, 1886.

T. V. POWDERLY.—Thanks for your message and suggestion. Hall was employed by the Texas & Pacific, and not by us. That property is in the hands of the United States Court, and we have no control whatever over the receivers or over the employes. We have carried out the agreement made last spring in every respect, and the present strike is unjust to us and unwise for you. It is reported here that this movement here is the result of Wall street influence on the part of those short of the securities likely to be affected.

[Signed] A. L. HOPKINS.

This dispatch you never answered. This correspondence places the continuance of the strike on your shoulders. You sat still and was silent after Mr Hopkins' urgent appeal, and allowed the strike to go on, allowed the company's property to be forcibly seized and the citizens of four States and one Territory to be deprived of their rightful railway facilities. Thus forced, the board of directors, prior to my return, placed the matter into Mr Hoxie's hands by a formal resolution, and that disposition of it has never been changed. You know this well because you had a correspondence with him on this subject. Hence it was that when Mr. Turner, secretary of your order, wrote to me on the subject, I fully advised him him in my letter of March 27 that the matter had been placed by the board in the hands of Mr. Hoxie, and that I must refer you to him as its continuing representative. At the same time I reminded you that a standing advertisement of this company was at that moment inviting its former employes to return to their posts, and that regardless of their being, or not being, members of your order, and regardless also of their individual participation in the strike which your order had recently inaugurated. When, in spite of all this, you desired to see me personally, I cordially met you, and, having put myself in communication with Mr. Hoxie, arranged with him for you the following, which was widely published by you at the time:

NEW YORK, March 30.

MARTIN IRONS, ST. LOUIS: Have been in conference all day, with the result that Vice-President Hoxie agrees to the following: "Willing to meet a committee of our employes without discrimination, who are actually at work in the service of the company at the time such committee is appointed, to adjudicate with them any grievances that they may have. Have your executive committee order men to return to work, and also select a special committee from the employes of the Missouri Pacific to wait on Mr. Hoxie to adjust any difference. Do this as quickly as possible. Board will leave for St. Louis to-morrow.

[Signed] FRED'K TURNER, Secretary.

Ever since then Mr. Hoxie has stood ready to receive any and all persons in the actual employ of this company as a committee or otherwise, and confer upon or arbitrate any matter of difference or complaint either between the company and themselves or between the company and its late employes, and for that matter, between the company and anybody else. No such committee or individual employe has so far as known to me ever made such application.

In this connection it will be remembered that they left, not because of any complaint whatever of this company's treatment of themselves, but only because of the company's refusal to comply with their demand that this company refuse to do what the law requires in the way of interchange of business with another company with which some of your order had a quarrel.

In the meantime this company has of necessity gone on to extend employment to such of those persons who recently, and without even alleged provocation, left its service, as saw fit to return. These returning employes have been very many, and in this way its rolls are already nearly, if not quite, as full as its shops and equipment, crippled by acts of violence attendant upon the recent action of your order, can employ. Mr. Hoxie advises me that every such person applying to be received back has been employed, unless believed to have taken part in recent acts of violence. This company still stands ready to make good in the fullest sense of agreement as expressly set forth. In the face of all this you notify me that unless by five o'clock I personally consent to something—precisely what I do not see—then personal consequences of a sort vaguely expressed, but not hard to understand, will at the hand of your order be visited upon me. Let me again remind you that it is an American citizen whom you and your order thus propose to destroy. The contest is not between your order and me, but between your order and the laws of the land. Your order has already defied those laws in preventing by violence this company from operating its road. You held then that this company should not operate its road under conditions prescribed by law, but only under conditions prescribed by you. You now declare in effect that I hold my individual property and rights, not as other men hold theirs, but only at the peril of your letting loose irrevocably, after five o'clock, your order upon me. If this is true of this company and of me, it is true of all other men and companies. If so, you and your secret order are the law, and an American citizen is such only in name.

Already for weeks your order have, in your attacks upon this company, not hesitated to disable it by violence from rendering its duty to the public and from giving work and paying wages to men at least three times your own number, who, working, as they were, by your side, were, at least, deserving of your sympathy.

Having pushed this violence beyond even the great forbearance of the public, and found in this direction cause to hesitate, you now turn upon me and propose that the wrongs you have hitherto inflicted on the public shall now culminate in an attack upon an individual. In this, as I have said, the real issue is between you and the laws of the land.

It may be before you are through that those laws will efficiently advise you that even I, as an individual citizen, am not beyond their care. Very respectfully,

JAY GOULD.

The Strike in East St. Louis.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., April 14.—The situation at the various freight yards has improved slightly since yesterday, although the railroad companies are still confronted by the same drawback—the difficulty of getting men to work for them. Notwithstanding all reports to the contrary, most of the companies are not in a condition to handle the freight they received satisfactorily. The rumors that old men are going back to work have no foundation. The strikers are as firm as ever and say they will stay out to the bitter end.

The chief question now agitating the East St. Louisans is, "How long will the militia remain?" The blushing East side maidens, of course, hope it will be very long, and some of them, it is said, will keep a few of the boys there for life. The "boys" themselves are not particularly anxious to stay much longer, and, as one of them jocosely remarked,

"If they keep us here too long, why the militia will go on a strike."

The general opinion, however, seems to be that they will remain about two or three weeks longer. The condition of the men is good, and none are seriously ill. A few have suffered from slight indisposition, but have been speedily relieved. The commissary department is excellently managed, and, altogether, the boys have nothing to complain of.

There was intense excitement among the different companies yesterday, over the rumor that a portion of them were to be sent to Collinsville to keep order during an impending strike among the coal miners. It was understood that some of the operators of Collinsville were very anxious to have the protection of the military, and that General Reece had signified his willingness to send a good-sized force up there. The boys say they do not propose to go into the coal mining business, nor did they understand that there would be any additional service required of them than keeping order in East St. Louis when they left home. The Edwardsville company is composed of twenty-eight men, who live in Madison County, and they were the particular squad that it was proposed to detail to go up to Collinsville and overawe their own county neighbors. They were kicking vigorously over the matter and several of them boldly remarked that the poor strikers, and laborers generally, had their deepest sympathy, and they wished they were out of the scrape. Their hearts were not in the cause that had brought them from home to East St. Louis.

ATTEMPTED INCENDIARISM.

About one o'clock this morning people in the neighborhood of Ninth street and St. Louis avenue were aroused by the cries of a woman of "fire!" "fire!" The neighbors turned out and found Mrs. Baptiste Fry in the streets crying that her house was on fire. On examination it was found that the sleeper on which the house rested had been saturated with coal oil and a torch applied, and that the flames were spreading to the house. A few buckets of water extinguished it. Damage about one hundred dollars. The house is owned by Baptiste Fry, a switch engineer on the Pittsburgh road, who was away from home when the fire occurred.
